Senate Passes $23 Billion School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $23-billion higher-education bill and sent it to a conference committee to determine how firmly Congress should legislate against busing of pupils.

The Senate version of the bill, which also authorizes $1.5 billion to help school districts desegregate, was approved on an 88-6 vote Wednesday. The Senate added comparatively mild restrictions on busing.

But the House, acting on the legislation last November, tied to it three stringent antibusing amendments.

Finding a common ground on busing will be one of the major questions, but not the only one, in the conference which is expected to begin in about two weeks.

There also are important differences on the formulas for aid to college students, for federal assistance to colleges and universities, and for paying out federal funds to assist school districts faced with desegregation problems.

The Senate dealt Wednesday with a last-gasp effort to revive the tough antibusing rider sponsored by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., defeating it 48 to 47. This proposal first was tentatively adopted 43 to 40 last Friday, then rejected 50 to 47 Tuesday.

Hopes of the busing foes had been centered on the Griffin proposal which would eliminate the right of federal courts to issue busing orders in school-desegregation cases.

The tough provisions of the House-passed bill would:

—Prohibit use of any federal funds to support busing to achieve desegregation.

—Bar federal agencies from persuading school districts to use their own funds for this purpose.

—Stay, pending final appeals, all busing ordered by courts in desegregation cases.

Nixon Eyes Decision On Busing

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon is nearing a decision on the steps his administration will take in an effort to blunt court-ordered busing of children to achieve racial balance in schools.

Soon after his return from China, Nixon began collecting from his aides and Cabinet advisers the pros and cons on a series of options—ranging from a proposed constitutional amendment to more federal intervention in court cases.

When Nixon boarded the presidential jet in Washington Wednesday to fly to his bayside Key Biscayne compound, an aide bounded up the ramp steps behind him carrying two black briefcases.

While spokesmen wouldn't divulge contents, it was virtually certain the briefcases contained material dealing with busing—now emerging as one of the hottest political issues of this election year.

And as the "Spirit of 76" flew toward Florida, Nixon summoned White House aide John Ehrlichman to his cabin, presumably to begin discussions on busing. Sources list these as among the options before the President:

—A constitutional amendment. This would be designed to forbid courts from ordering busing to achieve racial balance. But administration officials indicate problems have been encountered in agreeing on suitable wording.

—Legislation. The White House has watched with interest the Senate's hassle over legislation intended to curb busing but has yet to take a public position or propose specific legislation.

—Court intervention. Under this option, the Justice Department could attempt to reverse lower court rulings requiring busing and perhaps intervene in pending cases to clearly establish the administration stance on the issue.

Lancaster Soldier Dies

French Grab Half Ton Of Heroin

PARIS (AP) — French customs agents seized 537 pounds—425 kilograms—of pure heroin aboard a shrimp boat today.

The French Finance Ministry called it the biggest haul in history and the Paris office of the U.S. Narcotics Bureau said this amount would be enough for a one-month supply for every American addict.

French officials placed no value on the drugs. The U.S. Narcotics Bureau said importers pay $10,000-$12,000 a kilogram for 80-90 per cent pure heroin. This would put the price at dockside at $4.25 million to $5.1 million. Users pay up to $250,000 dollars a kilogram when it is finally diluted and split up for retail sale. This would raise the value to $106.25 million.

Marcel Boucan, 57, the captain of the 60-ton shrimp boat Caprice des Temps, sought to commit suicide by leaping into the water in Marseille port where the ship was taken for a search, authorities said. He was pulled out of the water and revived at a hospital. Police said he had written notes saying that his family and crew members were not involved.

Ministry sources said the seizure came as the result of a long watch on Boucan, who was identified as the former captain of a ship known to have been engaged in cigarette smuggling.

When the Caprice left Villefranche, two customs boats overtook her and fired warning shots across her bow when she refused to stop.

Agents boarded the ship and took it to Marseille for the search.

The first search turned up nothing suspicious, but it was apparent the boat had undergone considerable repairs and changes. Examination was made of the empty spaces under the tanks for storing the fish catch and the concrete covers of the hold were given a close examination.

The drug was found in watertight sacks embedded in the cement. Police from the drug brigade are trying now to locate the source of the heroin.

New Hampshire Cliffhanger Seen By Sen. McGovern

DURHAM, N. H. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is forecasting a cliffhanging finish in the New Hampshire presidential primary as he and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie begin their final drives for votes in the March 7 balloting.

Muskie and McGovern, virtually certain to be the one-two finishers in the Democratic race, both planned five days of New Hampshire campaigning until election eve.

"A small number of votes one way or the other can decide this election," McGovern said Wednesday night in asking some 800 University of New Hampshire students for support.

"I don't think it's going to be at all surprising if this election here turns out to be ... a cliffhanger," the South Dakota senator said.

McGovern's strategists contend that if Muskie's New Hampshire campaign is to be judged a success, the Maine senator should poll substantially more than a majority of the vote, in a race with five names on the Democratic ballot and an active, expensive write-in campaign under way for Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas.

It is part of the primary election gamesmanship for a political manager to set the opposition goal high while keeping his own public claims modest and more easily attainable.

But an outcome approaching the kind of cliffhanger McGovern envisioned would be a major and unexpected boost for the underdog entry from South Dakota.

Muskie, speaking at a $500-a-plate fundraising dinner in Boston Wednesday night, said he believed the people of New Hampshire would judge him fairly in the primary and won't heed the "veritable drumbeat of venom" from conservative publisher William Loeb.

He made clear that he is ready to return to the attack, if necessary, against Loeb, whose Manchester Union Leader is New Hampshire's largest daily newspaper.

He said the New Hampshire primary is particularly important because "if I can't do well here, the rest of the country ought not to be asked to consider me."

Muskie said he once won an election by one vote, but added, "I haven't been able to persuade the press that that's a sufficient margin. If I don't do so, I may be in trouble next Tuesday."

Election Board Tangled In Paper Ballots

Pickaway County Board of Election is awaiting official word from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown before ordering paper ballots for the May 2 presidential primary elections if the County Commissioners can raise funds to pay for the ballots.

A board meeting is expected sometime today on future plans.

Pickaway County is one of 28 voting machine counties that will have to find funds to print paper ballots listing Democratic presidential delegates and alternates.

Legislation proposed by Brown which would have permitted county election officials to place only the name of the presidential candidate on the ballot never got out of the Senate committee to which it was referred.

There isn't room on voting machines to list all the presidential convention delegates for all the candidates.

Democratic hopefuls running in the Ohio primary for 153 delegate votes are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey, Henry M. Jackson, (Continued on Page 2)

Syrian Jets Hit Israelis

Action Follows Border Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Syria followed up its first air strike against Israel in nearly two years with a vow today to retaliate against all future Israeli attacks.

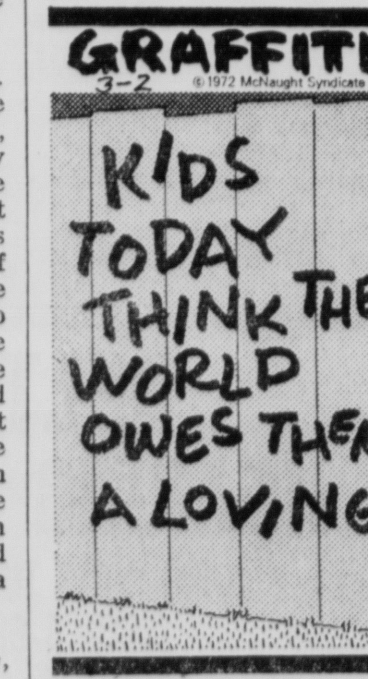

"In future we shall strike back heavily at every Israeli attack," said a government statement broadcast by Damascus Radio.

Syria added that it would retaliate whether the Israeli attack was directed against Syrian regulars or Palestinian guerrillas based in Syria.

Mortars and bazookas on the Syrian side of the cease-fire line shelled Israeli positions in the occupied Golan Heights for more than eight hours Monday night, and the Israelis struck back Wednesday with an air and artillery attack on guerrilla camps around seven villages in southern Syria. The local governor reported six guerrillas and four civilians were killed.

Syrian MIG17s retaliated with strikes later Wednesday on Israeli positions in the heights which Israeli seized from Syria during the 1967 war. Damascus claimed its planes inflicted heavy losses; Israel said they caused neither damage nor casualties.

It was the first time since June 1970 that the Syrian air force has been in action against the Israelis.

Nixon, Chou Talked Of War, POW's, Spokesman Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon talked to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai while in Peking last week about Vietnam peace prospects and possible freedom for American prisoners of war, an administration source says.

The source chatted with reporters Wednesday only on condition that he not be named. But the Boston Globe, which did not attend the briefing, identified the official as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's chief national-security adviser.

The official was asked if Nixon and other Americans had sought the good offices of the Chinese in helping resolve Vietnam problems, including the POW question.

He replied that the Americans stated their point of view. Asked if the Chinese said nothing on the topics, the source declined to discuss the subject further.

The source suggested there will be a public announcement within two or three weeks about Chinese-American agreement on a third country where they will establish continuing diplomatic contact far short of formal state relations.

The third country, he emphasized will not be Poland, where American and Chinese representatives have met periodically for a number of years. There has been speculation that Canada would be the prime choice.

Americans expect the third-country contact point to be very active, particularly as an avenue for carrying out people-to-people exchanges in science, technology, culture, sports, and journalism which both Nixon and Chou promised to facilitate in their Sunday communique issued in Shanghai.

The third-country channel also is expected to be used to promote trade between the two nations.

The communique said the United States and China will keep in close touch through various channels. These will include occasionally sending senior U.S. representatives to Peking "for concrete consultations to further the normalization of relations between the two countries."

This was described by the official as an option for the conduct of serious business. He suggested that from time to time there may be points when further progress in breaking down 22-year-old barriers can only be accomplished by direct talks with Chou and other Peking officials.

Berrigan Letters Disclosed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Copies of letters attributed to antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and a nun describe plans to blow up heating tunnels in Washington, D.C., and attempts by his followers to obtain "upwards of several million" dollars from Sweden.

The copies were placed into the record Wednesday at the trial of Berrigan and six others on charges that they conspired to blow up the tunnels, kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and vandalize draft boards.

Boyd F. Douglas Jr., a former inmate at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary where Berrigan was confined on charges of destroying draft records, said he made the photocopies while serving as an intermediary for letters exchanged by Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister, one of the other defendants.

The Berrigan letters list an attack on the Washington tunnels as the top antiwar gesture.

There was no disclosure whether anything came of the efforts to secure funds from Sweden.

Douglas, 31, was in a work-study program that enabled him to leave the prison for classes at Bucknell University.

Retired Appeals Judge Succumbs

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Retired Judge George S. Middleton of the 3rd District Court of Appeals in Lima, died in his home here Wednesday night. He was 84.

A native of Urbana in Champaign County, he served as Common Pleas Court judge in Logan County for a number of years before being elected to the appeals court. He retired from the appeals court six years ago. He leaves one daughter.

Challenge Plan Because Demos Not Sworn In WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio Republicans have turned to the U.S. Supreme Court in their efforts to have the Democratic administration's reapportionment of the state legislature declared illegal.

John McElroy, state Republican legal counsel, told the court Wednesday the plan approved by a three-judge federal court for the 1972 election is designed to lock in Democrats for 10 years.

He said the plan adopted by the state's five-man apportionment board is illegal because the three Democratic members were not sworn in.

McElroy said federal judges should have delayed their decision on the plan until a Republican suit challenging the constitutionality of the plan in the Ohio Supreme Court was settled.

McElroy and state Rep. Alan Norris, R-59 Westerville, were held in contempt by Federal District Court Judge Frank Battisti of Cleveland for continuing the Ohio Supreme Court suit.

Battisti said "the audacity of these persons ... is nothing less than astonishing," and fined McElroy $5,000 and Norris $100 for conduct he said was unbecoming of lawyers. McElroy's fine later was reduced to $500.

The three-judge district court of Battisti and Judges Anthony Celebrezze and Nicholas W. Winkler, also ordered the two men to drop the suit.

The federal court at first rejected the apportionment plan, but later approved it after the apportionment board met again and corrected errors cited by the court.

McElroy filed the Ohio Supreme Court suit on the behalf of Norris because Norris' home area would not have legislative representation under the original apportionment plan.

The apportionment board was made up of Democrats Gov. John Gilligan, state Auditor Joseph Ferguson and Sen. Anthony Calabrese of Cleveland, and Republicans Secretary of State Ted Brown and Rep. Robert Manning of Akron.

McElroy's Ohio Supreme Court suit said the so-called "Gilligan plan" was approved 3-2 along party lines by the board after it arbitrarily rejected two plans offered by the minority members.

Gilly Guilty In Murder Of Yablonskis

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Paul E. Gilly was sentenced to the electric chair today by the same jury that convicted him Wednesday of first-degree murder in the Yablonski slayings.

The jury of seven men and five women began deliberation on the penalty, Wednesday but recessed at 10:45 p.m.

Judge Charles Sweet explained in announcing the recess: "We want the work of this jury to be the best product of its consideration." The jurors, who remained isolated at a local hotel, deliberated about five hours Wednesday before returning a guilty verdict against Gilly at 8:30 p.m.

The 38-year-old Cleveland housepainter, who the state claims received a $5,200 contract to arrange the killings, sat motionless as the verdict was announced.

He was convicted on three counts of killing United Mine Workers official Joseph Yablonski, his wife and 25-year-old daughter more than two years ago in nearby Clarksville.

Yablonski had made an unsuccessful bid in 1969 for the presidency of the UMW as leader of an insurgent group.

Gilligan Continues Word Duel With Coal Chief

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan continued his verbal battle with the president of a coal company Wednesday as a pending and controversial bill to restrict strip mine operations overshadowed Ohio legislative activities.

Gilligan, in a statement, said he was "shocked" that Hanna Coal Co. President Ralph Hatch had threatened to close his strip mine operations if the regulatory bill passes the Senate and becomes law.

Hatch was not available for comment, but between 800 and 1,000 strip mine employees, most of them from the Hanna firm, descended on the Statehouse to lobby against the House-sponsored bill's passage.

The battle between the governor and Hatch took the spotlight from other legislative activities, including a Senate elections committee death sentence on a proposal to simplify voting for presidential candidates in the May 2 primary.

In other legislative business, the Senate received a bill that would require utility lines to be placed underground unless there was proof they would be uneconomical.

A House bill would require the re-examination of drivers over 65 seeking renewal of their licenses.

Other House measures introduced included a proposal constitutional amendment to repeal the $3,000 maximum exemption on the state income tax.

Rep. Donna Pope, R-51 Parma, said voter approval of a constitutional amendment in May would enable the legislature to grant larger exemptions to lower and middle income families who may be burdened with the tax.

Rep. Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton, offered a House bill to thwart Gilligan's plan to put the slogan, "Seat Belts Fastened?" on 1973 auto tags. The Levitt measure would require legislative approval before anything could be added on motor vehicle licenses.

Gilligan, in his statement, said House members who passed the strip mine legislation last October "took into consideration the economic impact of the bill and determined that its provisions would permit continued strip mine operations while still preserving and restoring the environment."

"There is not a single reason passage of this bill would require Hanna to shut down its operations," Gilligan said. Hanna's parent company, Consolidation Coal, continued to operate in Pennsylvania after that state passed a "tough strip mine law and regulations" in 1963.

"Three of the five Hanna strip mining licenses—covering 800 acres—are good until Sept. (Continued on Page 16)

Americans expect the third-country contact point to be very active, particularly as an avenue for carrying out people-to-people exchanges in science, technology, culture, sports, and journalism which both Nixon and Chou promised to facilitate in their Sunday communique issued in Shanghai.

The third-country channel also is expected to be used to promote trade between the two nations.

The communique said the United States and China will keep in close touch through various channels. These will include occasionally sending senior U.S. representatives to Peking "for concrete consultations to further the normalization of relations between the two countries."

This was described by the official as an option for the conduct of serious business. He suggested that from time to time there may be points when further progress in breaking down 22-year-old barriers can only be accomplished by direct talks with Chou and other Peking officials.

Gilligan Continues Word Duel With Coal Chief

By PERRY SMITH Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Gov. John Gilligan continued his verbal battle with the president of a coal company Wednesday as a pending and controversial bill to restrict strip mine operations overshadowed Ohio legislative activities.

Gilligan, in a statement, said he was "shocked" that Hanna Coal Co. President Ralph Hatch had threatened to close his strip mine operations if the regulatory bill passes the Senate and becomes law.

Hatch was not available for comment, but between 800 and 1,000 strip mine employees, most of them from the Hanna firm, descended on the Statehouse to lobby against the House-sponsored bill's passage.

The battle between the governor and Hatch took the spotlight from other legislative activities, including a Senate elections committee death sentence on a proposal to simplify voting for presidential candidates in the May 2 primary.

In other legislative business, the Senate received a bill that would require utility lines to be placed underground unless there was proof they would be uneconomical.

A House bill would require the re-examination of drivers over 65 seeking renewal of their licenses.

Other House measures introduced included a proposal constitutional amendment to repeal the $3,000 maximum exemption on the state income tax.

Rep. Donna Pope, R-51 Parma, said voter approval of a constitutional amendment in May would enable the legislature to grant larger exemptions to lower and middle income families who may be burdened with the tax.

Rep. Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton, offered a House bill to thwart Gilligan's plan to put the slogan, "Seat Belts Fastened?" on 1973 auto tags. The Levitt measure would require legislative approval before anything could be added on motor vehicle licenses.

Gilligan, in his statement, said House members who passed the strip mine legislation last October "took into consideration the economic impact of the bill and determined that its provisions would permit continued strip mine operations while still preserving and restoring the environment."

"There is not a single reason passage of this bill would require Hanna to shut down its operations," Gilligan said Hanna's parent company, Consolidation Coal, continued to operate in Pennsylvania after that state passed a "tough strip mine law and regulations" in 1963.

"Three of the five Hanna strip mining licenses—covering 800 acres—are good until Sept. (Continued on Page 16)

Election Board

George S. McGovern, and former Senator Eugene McCarthy.

Three ballots for the presidential primary alone will have to be prepared.

On the ballots, voters can either mark a single "x" for the presidential candidate of his choice that would pledge all delegates and alternates following his name to cast their votes for him.

Or, if they elect, they can vote for 38 delegates in a potpourri of their own choosing, 19 alternates in the same fashion, four district delegates and two district alternates.

Original plans submitted to the Pickaway County Commissioners sought an additional $21,000 for the printing of ballots, not counting the added cost of an estimated 200-300 additional workers needed to count the ballots.

Dick T. Tootle, chairman, of the board of commissioners, today repeated that there is no unappropriated money available for the ballots. He stated that money will have to be returned from various funds to the general fund and reapportioned for the board of elections.

Crash Ends Police Chase

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two young men were charged with grand larceny following a high-speed chase today that ended when their car slammed into five new autos at a car dealer lot here. No one was injured.

Harold Ware, 23, and Hardy Allen Jr., 18, both of suburban Lincoln Heights were charged with a break-in of two autos at a residence.

Springfield Township Patrolman Don Schuler said he was cruising the suburban area when he saw a parked car with its trunk lid up.

He said two men hopped in the car and took off. He said he chased the car about two miles before it clipped a utility pole and rammed into the new cars. Damage to the new cars had not been estimated.

British Intervene In Turkish Case

LONDON (AP) — The Foreign Office disclosed today the British government has intervened in the case of a 14-year-old British schoolboy, Timothy Davey, who has been sentenced to six years and three months in Turkey on charges of conspiring to sell 57 pounds of hashish.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home summoned Turkey's ambassador to London, Zeki Kumeralp, Wednesday and expressed the concern of the British government over the sentence.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a news conference: "We understand that an appeal will be lodged against the sentence and our immediate concern is that the process of appeal be conducted as quickly as possible."

6 Americans War Victims

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that six Americans were killed in combat in Indochina last week, the highest toll in more than two months.

A check of daily battlefield communiques disclosed two more American combat dead during the week, but due to delays in the reporting system they probably will be carried on the weekly casualty summary next week.

The toll of six was two more than the average of four a week for this year. It was the highest weekly toll since Dec. 12-18 when seven Americans were reported killed in action.

The summary reported 56 U.S. troops wounded in action last week, nearly three times that of the previous week and the most since Dec. 5-11 when 56 also were wounded.

Nine U.S. servicemen died of nonhostile causes last week, the command said. This was the highest number in six weeks.

Mayor Fined, Marshal Fined, Solicitor Resigns

MARTON, Wash. (AP) — The mayor was convicted, the city attorney who prosecuted him resigned and the mayor then fired the town marshal.

After 22 years as Marton's city attorney, Gordon Blechschmidt quit Tuesday: "I can't continue until this situation is cleared up."

He had prosecuted Mayor James Smith, who had been charged by Marshal Orville Anderson with public drunkenness. Police Judge Phil Noon found the mayor guilty and fined him $25.

Still in the courtroom, the mayor fired the marshal. Judge Noon objected from the bench, "This is neither the time nor the place for this."

CHS Music Students Earn Awards

Awards went to several Circleville High School students for their performances during the solo and ensemble contests Saturday held on the Ohio State University campus.

Superior ratings were earned by June Brudzinski for a sousaphone solo, Amy Curtis, Sue Milburn and Cheryl Neff for piano solos.

A vocal solo by Sue Hefelfinger and tenor sax solo by John Dowler were rated "excellent" along with the following: clarinet solo by Sue Milburn; saxophone sextet with Jim Salyer, Patty Maxwell, Kathy O'Hara, John Dowler, Bill Anderson and Butch Brintlinger; a brass quintet featuring Dave Winner on trombone, John Myers and Susan Williams on trumpet, June Brudzinski on sousaphone and Joni Jenkins on the French horn.

Also earning an excellent rating were Mary Ellen Frericks, Amy Grover, Suzanne Schlegler and Sally Groves who performed as a mixed clarinet quartet.

Bob Reagan, Nancy Clifton and Teresa Troutman received a "good" rating for a number they performed as a trumpet trio. The same notice was given to wiidwind quintet and brass quartet. On the woodwind instruments were Karen Foster, bassoon; Sue Milburn, clarinet; Terri Griffith, French horn; Ann Myes, flute and Mike Cairns, oboe. Making up the quartet with brass instruments were Bobbin Herkless, Vicki Bowers, Jeff VanGundy, Kathy Litter.

Mary Ellen Frericks earned a rating of "good" for her piano solo, "Elfin Dance." Kathy O'Hara was given a similar rating for her alto saxophone solo.

Auditions Set For 'Trumpet In The Wind'

Students seeking practical experience in theatre work are being given an opportunity to apply for a summer outdoor theatre job under an apprenticeship program for "Trumpet in the Land."

Apprentices selected will receive training in all phases of theatre under director Mark A. Schoenberg, during rehearsal and performance periods of "Trumpet in the Land" this summer at New Philadelphia, Ohio.

Opportunity will also be provided to participate in the activities of the summer Children's Theatre program, the Company Workshop performances and the Trumpet Singers.

Candidates for the Apprentice program will be interviewed and auditioned at the regular auditions which will be held March 6 in Columbus and March 7 in Cincinnati. Other Ohio auditions will be March 11 at New Philadelphia, March 9 at Toledo and March 10 in Cleveland.

"Trumpet in the Land" by Paul Green is Ohio's first outdoor drama. It portrays the true history of Ohio's first settlement, Schoenbrunn, and the infamous Gnadenhuten Massacre. It will open in New Philadelphia amphitheatre on June 29 and play nightly except Mondays through Sept. 3. Rehearsals begin June 5.

Applications and further information may be obtained by writing to: Trumpet in the Land, P. O. Box 275, Dover, Ohio 44622 or calling (216) 364-5111.

Fear Protestant Backlash Against Irish Terrorists

BELFAST (AP) — Speculation grew today that Northern Ireland's Protestant extremists may be getting ready to retaliate for the current murder campaign by Catholic guerrillas.

An opposition member of the provincial parliament said a "soft backlash" already is developing. He cited the wounding of two Roman Catholics in fusillades this week and the recent bombing of a hotel where Catholic politicians were meeting.

Other sources cited the assassination Feb. 8 of a Catholic in Belfast and the finding of a time bomb in a hotel just before the annual dinner-dance of the Catholic Gaelic Athletic Association.

"It could well be that a few people are just having a go," said a government official. "We are keeping a fairly close eye on these incidents, but so far there is no sign of organized activity."

Northern Ireland's Protestant majority for many months has left the task of fighting the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army to British troops and the provincial police. Expectations from time to time that Protestant vigilantes would take to the streets have not materialized. But this week has seen a new upsurge of IRA attacks, with two militiamen murdered at their homes on Tuesday and Wednesday and another man wounded seriously Wednesday night.

Any developing Protestant backlash would probably get a powerful boost if a report in a London paper today turns out to be true.

The Daily Mail, a Conservative paper, said Britain's Conservative Cabinet is about to approve a plan for Northern Ireland under which it would

Stock Prices Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices on the stock market today made modest gains in active trading.

Many of the gains were fractional as the market simmered along with less heat than on Wednesday.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was 937.69, up 2.26.

Advances held about a 7-to-5 advantage over the declining issues.

Brokers said investors appeared to be more wary but that their caution did not dampen the pace of buying and selling. Some analysts have been saying the market is due for a consolidation period.

In the news background was a Department of Commerce report that new factory orders rose 6.2 per cent in January to $63.1 billion, after seasonal adjustment, compared with $59.4 a year ago. December had registered a decline of 0.3 per cent.

Sen. Stockdale Returns To Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Robert Stockdale, who suffered a stroke late last year, resumed his legislative duties Wednesday with the aid of crutches and a wheel chair.

The Kent Republican is chairman of the Urban and Highway Affairs Committee, which is hearing controversial strip legislation.

Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, has been chairing the committee in his absence and is expected to continue presiding at committee meetings.

Sheriff Lists Activity Report

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated 69 accidents in February in which three persons were killed and 31 others injured.

According to a monthly report compiled by Elaine Miller of the department, most of the accidents occurred between 4 and 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays in either Circleville, Harrison or Wayne Twp.

Three people were killed in two accidents in Wayne Twp.

Failure to have a car under control resulted in 26 of the accidents.

The department investigated 50 offense reports.

Of these, there were 19 breaking and enterings investigated with seven cleared, nine petit larceny charges with one cleared, and two sex offenses, both cleared. Also listed were 11 grand larceny claims and seven malicious destruction claims.

Eight of these occurred in Scioto and Washington Twp., while seven were reported from Circleville Twp.

Aid and incident reports submitted during the month were about three times those submitted for February, 1971, or 315.

Biggest increase was noted in the investigation of suspicious cars and persons, house checks, fires and special details.

Most of these were contained to the Circleville Twp. area.

Shock Probation Okayed For Nickell

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer has ordered the return of Charles A. Nickell, Route 2, Beaver, for consideration of probation after serving a short time on his 1-3 year prison sentence.

Nickell began serving a penitentiary sentence Jan. 25 this year for obtaining money under false pretenses. His sentence was postponed a year and a half pending appeal of the jury trial which brought him a conviction for taking over $1,000 from Vincent Kish for truck tires.

Nickell will be returned to the local court where the judge will set the terms of his probation.

6 Americans War Victims

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that six Americans were killed in combat in Indochina last week, the highest toll in more than two months.

A check of daily battlefield communiques disclosed two more American combat dead during the week, but due to delays in the reporting system they probably will be carried on the weekly casualty summary next week.

The toll of six was two more than the average of four a week for this year. It was the highest weekly toll since Dec. 12-18 when seven Americans were reported killed in action.

The summary reported 56 U.S. troops wounded in action last week, nearly three times that of the previous week and the most since Dec. 5-11 when 56 also were wounded.

Nine U.S. servicemen died of nonhostile causes last week, the command said. This was the highest number in six weeks.

Mayor Fined, Marshal Fined, Solicitor Resigns

MABTON, Wash. (AP) — The mayor was convicted, the city attorney who prosecuted him resigned and the mayor then fired the town marshal.

After 22 years as Mabton's city attorney, Gordon Blechschmidt quit Tuesday: "I can't continue until this situation is cleared up."

He had prosecuted Mayor James Smith, who had been charged by Marshal Orville Anderson with public drunkenness. Police Judge Phil Noon found the mayor guilty and fined him $25.

Still in the courtroom, the mayor fired the marshal. Judge Noon objected from the bench, "This is neither the time nor the place for this."

British Intervene In Turkish Case

LONDON (AP) — The Foreign Office disclosed today the British government has intervened in the case of a 14-year-old British schoolboy, Timothy Davey, who has been sentenced to six years and three months in Turkey on charges of conspiring to sell 57 pounds of hashish.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home summoned Turkey's ambassador to London, Zeki Kumeralp, Wednesday and expressed the concern of the British government over the sentence.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a news conference: "We understand that an appeal will be lodged against the sentence and our immediate concern is that the process of appeal be conducted as quickly as possible."

Probation Granted

Daniel Brungs Jr., brought before the county court today for failing to provide for his family, was placed on probation for a three year period.

Roundtown

which sent Roundtown temperatures plummeting from the low 70s to the 20s today is credited to a cold front shifting into the county from the northwest. Thunderstorm activity is expected to change to snow this afternoon as our warm weather mixes with the colder front. Didn't take that March lion long to take over.

DIESEL oil has been fouling up operations at the Circleville sewerage plant recently. Public Utilities Director Charles Taylor reported today. Taylor said that some industrial or commercial user has apparently been dumping the oil in the sanitary sewers and this practice must be stopped immediately.

THE deputy registrar's office in the basement of the Pickaway County Court House opens at 8:30 a.m. The Herald mistakenly listed 8 a.m. as the opening time and there have been some irate people waiting for half an hour the last couple of mornings.

George S. McGovern, and former Senator Eugene McCarthy.

Three ballots for the presidential primary alone will have to be prepared.

On the ballots, voters can either mark a single "X" for the presidential candidate of his choice that would pledge all delegates and alternates following his name to cast their votes for him.

Or, if they elect, they can vote for 38 delegates in a potpourri of their own choosing, 19 alternates in the same fashion, four district delegates and two district alternates.

Original plans submitted to the Pickaway County Commissioners sought an additional $21,000 for the printing of ballots, not counting the added cost of an estimated 200-300 additional workers needed to count the ballots.

Dick T. Tootle, chairman, of the board of commissioners, today repeated that there is no unappropriated money available for the ballots. He stated that money will have to be returned from various funds to the general fund and reapportioned for the board of elections.

Crash Ends Police Chase

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two young men were charged with grand larceny following a high-speed chase today that ended when their car slammed into five new autos at a car dealer lot here. No one was injured.

Harold Ware, 23, and Hardy Allen Jr., 18, both of suburban Lincoln Heights were charged with a break-in of two autos at a residence.

Springfield Township Patrolman Don Schuler said he was cruising the suburban area when he saw a parked car with its trunk lid up.

He said two men hopped in the car and took off. He said he chased the car about two miles before it clipped a utility pole and rammed into the new cars.

Damage to the new cars had not been estimated.

British Intervene In Turkish Case

CHS Music Students Earn Awards

Awards went to several Circleville High School students for their performances during the solo and ensemble contests Saturday held on the Ohio State University campus.

Superior ratings were earned by June Brudzinski for a sousaphone solo, Amy Curtis, Sue Milburn and Cheryl Neff for piano solos.

A vocal solo by Sue Hefelfinger and tenor sax solo by John Dowler were rated "excellent" along with the following: clarinet solo by Sue Milburn; saxophone sextet with Jim Salver, Patty Maxwell, Kathy O'Hara, John Dowler, Bill Anderson and Butch Brintlinger; a brass quintet featuring Dave Winner on trombone, John Myers and Susan Williams on trumpet, June Brudzinski on sousaphone and Joni Jenkins on the French horn.

Also earning an excellent rating were Mary Ellen Fredericks, Amy Grover, Suzanne Schlegler and Sally Groves who performed as a mixed clarinet quartet.

Bob Reagan, Nancy Clifton and Teresa Troutman received a "good" rating for a number they performed as a trumpet trio. The same notice was given to windward quintet and brass quartet. On the woodwind instruments were Karen Foster, bassoon; Sue Milburn, clarinet; Terri Griffith, French horn; Ann Myes, flute and Mike Cairns, oboe. Making up the quartet with brass instruments were Bobbin Herkless, Vicki Bowers, Jeff VanGundy, Kathy Litter.

Mary Ellen Fredericks earned a rating of "good" for her piano solo, "Elfin Dance." Kathy O'Hara was given a similar rating for her alto saxophone solo.

Auditions Set For 'Trumpet In The Wind'

Students seeking practical experience in theatre work are being given an opportunity to apply for a summer outdoor theatre job under an apprenticeship program for "Trumpet in the Land."

Apprentices selected will receive training in all phases of theatre under director Mark A. Schoenberg, during rehearsal and performance periods of "Trumpet in the Land" this summer at New Philadelphia, Ohio.

Opportunity will also be provided to participate in the activities of the summer Children's Theatre program, the Company Workshop performances and the Trumpet Singers.

Candidates for the Apprentice program will be interviewed and auditioned at the regular auditions which will be held March 6 in Columbus and March 7 in Cincinnati. Other Ohio auditions will be March 11 at New Philadelphia, March 9 at Toledo and March 10 in Cleveland.

"Trumpet in the Land" by Paul Green is Ohio's first outdoor drama. It portrays the true history of Ohio's first settlement, Schoenbrunn, and the infamous Gnadenhuetten Massacre. It will open in New Philadelphia amphitheatre on June 29 and play nightly except Mondays through Sept. 3. Rehearsals begin June 5.

Applications and further information may be obtained by writing to: Trumpet in the Land, P. O. Box 275, Dover, Ohio 44622 or calling (216) 364-5111.

Fear Protestant Backlash Against Irish Terrorists

BELFAST (AP) — Speculation grew today that Northern Ireland's Protestant extremists may be getting ready to retaliate for the current murder campaign by Catholic guerrillas.

An opposition member of the provincial parliament said a "soft backlash" already is developing. He cited the wounding of two Roman Catholics in fusillades this week and the recent bombing of a hotel where Catholic politicians were meeting.

Other sources cited the assassination Feb. 8 of a Catholic in Belfast and the finding of a time bomb in a hotel just before the annual dinner-dance of the Catholic Gaelic Athletic Association.

"It could well be that a few people are just having a go," said a government official. "We are keeping a fairly close eye on these incidents, but so far there is no sign of organized activity."

Northern Ireland's Protestant majority for many months has left the task of fighting the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army to British troops and the provincial police. Expectations from time to time that Protestant vigilantes would take to the streets have not materialized. But this week has seen a new upsurge of IRA attacks, with two militiamen murdered at their homes on Tuesday and Wednesday and another man wounded seriously Wednesday night.

Any developing Protestant backlash would probably get a powerful boost if a report in a London paper today turns out to be true.

The Daily Mail, a Conservative paper, said Britain's Conservative Cabinet is about to approve a plan for Northern Ireland under which it would

Stock Prices Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices on the stock market today made modest gains in active trading.

Many of the gains were fractional as the market simmered along with less heat than on Wednesday.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was 937.69, up 2.26.

Advances held about a 7-to-5 advantage over the declining issues.

Brokers said investors appeared to be more wary but that their caution did not dampen the pace of buying and selling. Some analysts have been saying the market is due for a consolidation period.

In the news background was a Department of Commerce report that new factory orders rose 6.2 per cent in January to $63.1 billion, after seasonal adjustment, compared with $59.4 a year ago. December had registered a decline of 0.3 per cent.

Sen. Stockdale Returns To Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Robert Stockdale, who suffered a stroke late last year, resumed his legislative duties Wednesday with the aid of crutches and a wheel chair.

The Kent Republican is chairman of the Urban and Highway Affairs Committee, which is hearing controversial strip legislation.

Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, has been chairing the committee in his absence and is expected to continue presiding at committee meetings.

Sheriff Lists Activity Report

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated 69 accidents in February in which three persons were killed and 31 others injured.

According to a monthly report compiled by Elaine Miller of the department, most of the accidents occurred between 4 and 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays in either Circleville, Harrison or Wayne Twp.

Three people were killed in two accidents in Wayne Twp. Failure to have a car under control resulted in 26 of the accidents.

The department investigated 50 offense reports.

Of these, there were 19 breaking and enterings investigated with seven cleared, nine petit larceny charges with one cleared, and two sex offenses, both cleared. Also listed were 11 grand larceny claims and seven malicious destruction claims.

Eight of these occurred in Scioto and Washington Twp., while seven were reported from Circleville Twp.

Aid and incident reports submitted during the month were about three times those submitted for February, 1971, or 315.

Biggest increase was noted in the investigation of suspicious cars and persons, house checks, fires and special details.

Most of these were contained to the Circleville Twp. area.

Shock Probation Okayed For Nickell

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer has ordered the return of Charles A. Nickell, Route 2, Beaver, for consideration of probation after serving a short time on his 1-3 year prison sentence.

Nickell began serving a penitentiary sentence Jan. 25 this year for obtaining money under false pretenses. His sentence was postponed a year and a half pending appeal of the jury trial which brought him a conviction for taking over $1,000 from Vincent Kish for truck tires.

Nickell will be returned to the local court where the judge will set the terms of his probation.

Mrs. Larry Lauerman and children went to Laurelville to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cavinee who had just returned from two months in Florida and to say goodbye to her grandfather Mr. Grover Fox, who left the next day with a group headed by the Reverend Lynn Summers, pastor of the Church of God in Laurelville, for a ten day trip to the Holy Land. Fourteen persons were in the group to join others on the tour in New York and among them was Mrs. Summers and their two daughters, Stephanie and Jody, Mrs. Marjorie Ebert, Mrs. Kay Ebert, Mrs. Velma Thurston and Mr. Robert Thompson. They are expected home March 3rd.

Mrs. Cecil Bower presided at the regular meeting of the Mt. Pleasant Garden Club when they met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Grover Whitten with Mrs. Helen Greenwalt assisting hostess.

Members answered roll call by naming 'my favorite flower' and Mrs. Wayne DeLong introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. Steve Morgan, a student at Chillicothe High School who gave a very interesting talk on his trip to Japan with the Boy Scout Jamboree.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Marvin Jones. Containers were displayed by several members with prizes going to Mrs. Bower and Mrs. Jones. These containers were made from discarded auto parts, plates, light fixtures and other pieces of junk found around the garage, barn or home.

Mrs. William Damron and

Mrs. Wayne DeLong will be the hostesses for the March meeting and the theme of that meeting will be, "Here Comes Peter Cotton Tail".

Mrs. Harold Wright entertained her Bingo Club last Wednesday night with Mrs. William Moss Jr., Mrs. Tom Congrove, Mrs. Donald Beavers and Mrs. Larry Large winning the prizes. Others present were Mrs. Irwin Dresbach, Mrs. Tom Snyder, Mrs. Edwin Hupp, Mrs. Ed Jones Jr. and Mrs. Ronald

Gardening With TLC

One of the best therapies for this time of year is planning a spring garden. Planning requires little physical effort, but just the thought of pretty or edible things growing in the yard can do wonders for the disposition.

'Tis the season of the seed catalog, and those spectacularly illustrated pamphlets give the garden fancier the urge — to harvest if not sow. This year a scientific theory has interjected itself, however, to complicate the transition from seed to plant.

An amateur scientist was playing with a polygraph and hooked the machine to a plant. Whereupon the device began recording the plant's feelings, or maybe they were just vibrations. The perator experimented further and claimed that plants express such emotions as fear and pleasure — on the polygraph. Other objects, including inanimate ones, reacted similarly to the polygraph tests. But never mind such things as fainting chicken eggs for the moment. Let's stay with the garden.

The gardener must be unusually careful. He must approach his plants as a loving parent would a child, talking gently or perhaps singing softly to them. He will water them ever so carefully, and he will show special feeling while pulling those nasty parasites from around the tender little roots.

Unfair Target

Why is it that the business community so frequently is the target of political criticism? Perhaps it is because of an inferiority complex on the part of the politician who recognizes it is the business community which builds the economic base upon which the tax structure rests.

Whatever the reason, the anonymous target of business provides a favorite whipping boy. It is simultaneously accused of polluting the environment but also of not expanding rapidly enough — in the case of the power industry.

Business is blamed for spending too much for capital expansion, only to be berated a year later for not spending enough. Its profit margins are attacked even when they are at the lowest ebb in years.

The business world, to hear some people tell it, can do no right.

The interesting point is that it is the same business community which provides the jobs, supports the high standard of living, contributes taxes, produces goods and services, and satisfies consumer and investor. Political oratory to the contrary, that is really not the work of a villain.

Federal Inspectors Probe Dam Dangers In Appalachia

WASHINGTON (AP) — One hundred federal coal-mine-safety inspectors began an investigation Monday of dams in Eastern Kentucky, Virginia, and West Virginia, the Louisville Courier Journal reported today.

The Interior Department announced the federal investigation Tuesday, in the aftermath of heavy rains in Appalachia, and the deaths of some 71 persons in the collapse of a dam on Buffalo Creek, in Logan County, W. Va.

The survey will focus on dams constructed of coal-mine wastes, the paper said.

Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford said most of the impoundments were created years ago, when the slag—or waste from coal production—was dumped across streams on mountain tops.

Rutherford said dams "as dangerous as Buffalo Creek" can be found in all of Eastern Kentucky's coal producing areas.

The judge said seven large slag-held lakes can be found in Pike county alone. He said the one he fears most is located on Pond Creek, in the eastern part of Pike County.

William Davies, a scientist with the U.S. Geological Survey, was reported to have said there might be 100 unsafe dams in Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Davies said many coal-waste dams he surveyed in 1966 lacked proper spillways and overflow channels.

The 1966 survey turned up four coal-mine waste piles in Letcher County.

An Interior Department spokesman said he didn't know what action the department could take if it found unsafe dams.

There is dispute in Washington over whether the Interior Department has the authority to require proper maintenance of slag dams on private property.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.D. Morton said the department lacks the power, but has asked Congress to grant it. However, U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., said the 1969 Coal-Mine Health and Safety law gave the department the necessary authority, and that regulations were issued last May to use that authority.

Block Vote Plan Killed In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Elections Committee Wednesday killed a bill that would have permitted voters to select their presidential delegate blocks by voting only for the presidential hopeful.

The action means that Ohio boards of elections will be forced to use paper ballots for presidential delegate elections in the May 2 primary.

Costs have been estimated at nearly $2 million for the paper ballot voting.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-S Cincinnati, Elections Committee chairman, said he asked for the motion to definitely postpone the bill after it became obvious an agreement could not be reached.

"Everybody would have had to agree upon this bill in order to get it through the legislature as an emergency measure," Aronoff said. "It was obvious that could not be accomplished."

The problem was mostly in the Democratic party ballots where 173 delegates and 78 alternates must be listed as well as the presidential candidate they are supporting. The delegate candidates were too numerous for a voting machine to handle.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

You now have changing relationships with others in the romantic department of your life. Make a point to work this new arrangement into constructive channels instead of getting your feelings hurt or bringing up some moot point that can lessen the harmony in your present alliance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are in a mood to argue with mate or good friends, but this would only release pent-up emotions. Use an intelligent, diplomatic approach instead. Become a happier person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) While engaged at your work put some zip into it so that it does not become a drag on you. Impress fellow workers with your ability. New treatments will add to your present vitality.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you show others that you really like them, you get excellent results at this time. The time is right to express that fine talent you have. Stop being so modest. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Invest in new furniture and make your home more charming and comfortable. Making the right changes can create a whole new atmosphere. Count your blessings and be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you show an interest in the welfare of others, you gain their goodwill and gratitude. Show that you are a clever person and produce real results. Curb that temper of yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busy making your environments more charming in the morning. Later listen to what an expert has to say about improving your monetary standing. Combine this with your own ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) That quality of magnetism you possess today should not be spent in wrong directions, but be put to constructive use now. Attend some parties where you are welcome and can please others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't put a special plan in operation until tomorrow, but make preparations now. Show more patience with one who is vital to your welfare. Losing your temper could bring dire results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can rely on a good friend to come to your aid during a period of possible trouble. Going to the social is fine provided you are not blunt, or imbibe too freely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use diplomacy with a bigwig if you really want to make a good impression on this person. If you observe every law that applies to you, you will avoid trouble. Be civic-minded.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine ideas that need rechecking with experts for minor flaws. Plan that important trip now, and get all the data you need. Your plan for expansion is good.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You must listen with care to what experts say if you want to gain their respect and make good in your project. Being more broadminded with mate is wise. Try to be understanding.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who has a fiery temper that must be controlled early in life, otherwise the fine promise here could definitely be lessened. Your progeny could be most successful as an expediter, or one who can get at the cause of failing projects.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know that uncooked pork can be very dangerous. Is this also true of uncooked beef?

Mrs. S. L. Va.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Trichinosis, resulting from uncooked pork, still presents a serious health hazard. It is an infection that occurs when raw or insufficiently cooked pork is eaten. Pork should be thoroughly cooked.

All beef and beef products are strictly supervised by federal, state, and local health authorities in the United States. This assures the consumer that stamped beef contains no parasites that are dangerous to health.

The beef tapeworm thrives only in contaminated beef. When the stamp of government inspection is placed on the beef and the beef is properly refrigerated, the public can be confident that the meat is free of contamination and safe to eat.

It should be noted that even government-inspected meat can be contaminated by food handlers who are careless about personal hygiene. Therefore, all meat should be well cooked.

There are constant inspections in all places where beef is stored and handled. Consumers have this reassurance when buying beef.

Is a "strain" of the ankle the same as a "sprain"?

Mr. M. J. Ariz.

Dear Mr. J.: There are definite technical differences between a strain and a sprain.

A sprain involves an injury to the joints, the tendons and the ligaments.

A less serious injury to the muscles is a strain.

Both a sprain and a strain cause sudden, painful swelling and discoloration of the ankle. It is nature's way of protecting itself that causes the pain and difficulty in walking. In this way, the injury is controlled.

When a sprain or a strain occurs at home the best thing to do is to get off the foot and rest it.

You have undoubtedly heard many people say that the wise thing to do is to start walking around immediately. The real danger of this is that the so-called sprain or strain might turn out to be a fractured bone.

Elevate the foot while resting it, and apply cold compresses or ice packs to the ankle. Don't tape, bandage or strap the ankle without the advice of a physician.

After X-ray study of the ankle, doctors sometimes inject it for relief of pain (walking may then be prescribed).

Enzymes are given to absorb blood and reduce the swelling in the tissues.

These newer treatments are extremely helpful in shortening the time of incapacitation and in speeding recovery.

Can constant exposure to very loud noise in factories result in deafness?

Mr. I. R. W., Mich.

Dear Mr. W.: Permanent loss of some hearing can result from such constant noise. Cotton plugs in the ears are not effective. The noise should be reduced.

Some octopuses can change from shades of light aqua to a deep red-brown within seconds to fool their enemies.

By JEFFREY HART

A great debate seems to be raging between President Nixon and his Democratic rivals on the subject of Vietnam. In a nutshell, the President refuses to overthrow the Saigon government, while Muskie, McGovern and the others would be perfectly willing to do so in order to end the war. Muskie, we hear, now puts forward his position "with fervor," and his response to Nixon's eight-point plan does indeed possess an evangelical beat:

"I have been asked to talk with you today about the environment . . . the earth God made. Instead, I want to ask you to reflect with me on the earth man has remade." We are "watching our sons fight and die, not for a cause, but for a mistake — looking to a future where more human beings will suffer at our hands in a senseless and immoral conflict."

Muskie underwent a great conversion as regards Vietnam in 1969. A healthy dose of skepticism is called for here, however. It is hardly likely that Muskie had any very deep convictions about Vietnam to start with, and it is just as unlikely that he believes anything much about it now. In fact, Muskie's successive positions on the war probably are not even intended to refer primarily to Vietnam at all; what is clear enough is that they respond to his own pressing needs in relation to the Democratic Party.

"We believe that containment of Communist aggression," said Muskie in 1966, when LBJ was President and the Democrats were facing an off-year Congressional election, "regretfully involves direct confrontation from time to time and that to retreat from it is to undermine the prospects for stability and peace."

This is clear-cut enough, and to suppose that Muskie believed that a few years ago, but now believes the first quotation used in this column is to suppose him a latter-day Paul on the road to Damascus. The intellectual life does not ordinarily proceed in that way.

But the political life may well proceed that way, and Muskie's rhetoric, fervor or no fervor, addresses itself to his own peculiar tactical problem in 1972. He must prevent himself from being outflanked to the left by either McGovern or Lindsay.

The committed Left is a minority within the Democratic Party, but it is zealous, noisy and well heeled. It has clout on the campus and in the media. The Left alone cannot carry you to the Democratic nomination, but it can block your way or, as in 1968, make the nomination not worth having. And add to this the datum that in the first eight primary states alone there are 3,000,000 prospective new voters under the age of 21 who are likely to be titillated by Muskie's New Rhetoric.

Revealingly enough, Stewart Alsop has reported that when he queried Muskie about his willingness to double-cross Saigon, Muskie responded not by talking about Vietnam, but by referring to "electoral realities" right here. Muskie is intelligent enough to know that nothing said by anyone on the campaign trail is likely to have much effect in Vietnam; the whole story now hinges on the success or failure of the Communist offensive. Muskie's leftist rhetoric is merely designed to keep the yokels in the tent.

This is not at all to say that Muskie is a hypocrite. Far from it. He is merely a politician plying his craft. Indeed, the strength of his candidacy lies in the widespread conviction that he is too practical a type to get locked into a narrow ideological position. Political sincerity is an odd quantity in any case. In private conversation Richard Nixon can sound somewhere to the right of Louis XVI. But, when he judges the moment propitious, he can haul out one of those speeches by Ray Price, full of uplift and Wilsonian goo.

Sincerity

By JEFFREY HART

And if Muskie actually gets the Democratic nomination, you can bet that the rhetoric of his campaign will move fairly quickly back toward the political center.

And if Muskie actually gets the Democratic nomination, you can bet that the rhetoric of his campaign will move fairly quickly back toward the political center.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1971 deficit in merchandise trade with the rest of the world, the first suffered by the United States since 1888, is usually blamed by protectionists on unfair trade practices by other nations.

They point to the U.S. loss of its share in a wide range of basic products—steel, automobiles, electronics, textiles—as the result of tariffs, subsidies, low-wage rates and currency imbalances.

All these factors are involved. Consider just the latter, the matter of currency ratios. Since the end of World War II France has devalued its currency five times, Italy three times, England twice.

The effect of such devaluations was to solve imbalances in the foreign payments of these nations but at a cost to other countries of an upward revaluation of their currencies.

The net result was easier trade for the devaluers and a more difficult time for competitors. The major adverse impact was on the United States, which at the same time was sending abroad $345 billion in aid and investments.

Still, many advocates of protectionism for the U.S. market fail to consider some of the other factors. The fact, for example, that the output of the U.S. manufacturing establishment has failed to keep pace.

Or stated another way, that the United States has failed to invest heavily enough in plant and equipment modernization and that therefore it cannot compete efficiently.

Productivity increase is the key to remaining competitive, assuming that competitive conditions are otherwise fair. But productivity is not growing in the United States as strongly as it is in some competing nations.

The comparison becomes clear when related to wage costs. Such costs per unit put rose only one per cent in France between 1965 and 1970, and only 4 per cent in Japan. But in the United States, wage costs rose 21 per cent.

Is this because wages are rising so fast? It might seem so, but that isn't the only factor and probably not the critical one. That problem of the old machinery is the more likely cause.

This is an explanation that some manufacturers find difficult to accept but the fact is that wage rates, though rising from a smaller base, have actually ascended faster abroad than in the United States.

Labor costs have contributed, of course. So have high expenditures for social services that Americans once did without but which they now demand. But capital and management failed also by failing to keep plants modern.

The solutions to the trade deficit, therefore, are clearly seen to be within as well as without, and that is premise upon which the nation seeks solutions. While seeking to lower trade barriers abroad it seeks also to modernize its plants and keep wages and prices in balance.

The new self-image of the United States, in which it views itself as no longer all-powerful, no longer unique, no longer the paternalistic provider of immense amounts of aids is dictated by the facts.

The judge said seven large slag-held lakes can be found in Pike county alone. He said the one he fears most is located on Pond Creek, in the eastern part of Pike County.

William Davies, a scientist with the U.S. Geological Survey, was reported to have said there might be 100 unsafe dams in Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Davies said many coal-waste dams he surveyed in 1966 lacked proper spillways and overflow channels.

The 1966 survey turned up four coal-mine waste piles in Letcher County.

An Interior Department spokesman said he didn't know what action the department could take if it found unsafe dams.

There is dispute in Washington over whether the Interior Department has the authority to require proper maintenance of slag dams on private property.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.D. Morton said the department lacks the power, but has asked Congress to grant it. However, U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., said the 1969 Coal-Mine Health and Safety law gave the department the necessary authority, and that regulations were issued last May to use that authority.

Block Vote Plan Killed In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Elections Committee Wednesday killed a bill that would have permitted voters to select their presidential delegate blocks by voting only for the presidential hopeful.

The action means that Ohio boards of elections will be forced to use paper ballots for presidential delegate elections in the May 2 primary.

Costs have been estimated at nearly $2 million for the paper ballot voting.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, Elections Committee chairman, said he asked for the motion to definitely postpone the bill after it became obvious an agreement could not be reached.

"Everybody would have had to agree upon this bill in order to get it through the legislature as an emergency measure," Aronoff said. "It was obvious that could not be accomplished."

The problem was mostly in the Democratic party ballots where 173 delegates and 78 alternates must be listed as well as the presidential candidate they are supporting. The delegate candidates were too numerous for a voting machine to handle.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know that uncooked pork can be very dangerous. Is this also true of uncooked beef?

Mrs. S. L., Va.

Dear Mrs. L.: Trichinosis, resulting from uncooked pork, still presents a serious health hazard. It is an infection that occurs when raw or insufficiently cooked pork is eaten. Pork should be thoroughly cooked.

All beef and beef products are strictly supervised by federal, state, and local health authorities in the United States. This assures the consumer that stamped beef contains no parasites that are dangerous to health.

The beef tapeworm thrives only in contaminated feed. When the stamp of government inspection is placed on the beef and the beef is properly refrigerated, the public can be confident that the meat is free of contamination and safe to eat.

It should be noted that even government-inspected meat can be contaminated by food handlers who are careless about personal hygiene. Therefore, all meat should be well cooked. There are constant inspections in all places where beef is stored and handled. Consumers have this reassurance when buying beef.

Is a "strain" of the ankle the same as a "sprain"?

Mr. M. J. Ariz.

Dear Mr. J.: There are definite technical differences between a strain and a sprain.

A sprain involves an injury to the joints, the tendons and the ligaments.

A less serious injury to the muscles is a strain. Both a sprain and a strain cause sudden, painful swelling and discoloration of the ankle. It is nature's way of protecting itself that causes the pain and difficulty in walking. In this way, the injury is controlled.

When a sprain or a strain occurs at home the best thing to do is to get off the foot and rest it.

You have undoubtedly heard many people say that the wise thing to do is to start walking around immediately. The real danger of this is that the so-called sprain or strain might turn out to be a fractured bone.

Elevate the foot while resting it, and apply cold compresses or ice packs to the ankle. Don't tape, bandage or strap the ankle without the advice of a physician.

After X-ray study of the ankle, doctors sometimes inject it for relief of pain (walking may then be prescribed).

Enzymes are given to absorb blood and reduce the swelling in the tissues.

These newer treatments are extremely helpful in shortening the time of incapacitation and in speeding recovery.

Con constant exposure to very loud noise in factories result in deafness?

Mr. I. R. W., Mich.

Dear Mr. W.:

Permanent loss of some hearing can result from such constant noise. Cotton plugs in the ears are not effective. The noise should be reduced.

Some octopuses can change from shades of light aqua to a deep red-brown within seconds to fool their enemies.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have changing relationships with others in the romantic department of your life. Make a point to work this new arrangement into constructive channels instead of bringing up some moot point that can lessen the harmony in your present alliance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are in a mood to argue with mate or good friends, but this would only release pent-up emotions. Use an intelligent, diplomatic approach instead. Become a happier person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) While engaged at your work put some zip into it so that it does not become a drag on you. Impress fellow workers with your ability. New treatments will add to your present vitality.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you show others that you really like them, you get excellent results at this time. The time is right to express that fine talent you have. Stop being so modest. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Invest in new furniture and make your home more charming and comfortable. Making the right changes can create a whole new atmosphere. Count your blessings and be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you show an interest in the welfare of others, you gain their goodwill and gratitude. Show that you are a clever person and produce real results. Curb that temper of yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busy making your environs more charming in the morning. Later listen to what an expert has to say about improving your monetary standing. Combine this with your own ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) That quality of magnetism you possess today should not be spent in wrong directions, but be put to constructive use now. Attend some parties where you are welcome and can please others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't put a special plan in operation until tomorrow, but make preparations now. Show more patience with one who is vital to your welfare. Losing your temper could bring dire results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can rely on a good friend to come to your aid during a period of possible trouble. Going to the social is fine provided you are not blunt, or imberbe too freely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use diplomacy with a bigwig if you really want to make a good impression on this person. If you observe every law that applies to you, you will avoid trouble. Be civic-minded.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine ideas that need rechecking with experts for minor flaws. Plan that important trip now, and get all the data you need. Your plan for expansion is good.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You must listen with care to what experts say if you want to gain their respect and make good in your project. Being more broadminded with mate is wise. Try to be understanding.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who has a fiery temper that must be controlled early in life, otherwise the fine promise here could definitely be lessened. Your progeny could be most successful as an expeditor, or one who can get at the cause of failing projects.

By JEFFREY HART

A great debate seems to be raging between President Nixon and his Democratic rivals on the subject of Vietnam. In a nutshell, the President refuses to overthrow the Saigon government, while Muskie, McGovern and the others would be perfectly willing to do so in order to end the war. Muskie, we hear, now puts forward his position "with fervor," and his response to Nixon's eight-point plan does indeed possess an evangelical beat.

"I have been asked to talk with you today about the environment . . . the earth God made. Instead, I want to ask you to reflect with me on the earth man has remade." We are "watching our sons fight and die, not for a cause, but for a mistake — looking to a future where more human beings will suffer at our hands in a senseless and immoral conflict."

Muskie underwent a great conversion as regards Vietnam in 1969. A healthy dose of skepticism is called for here, however. It is hardly likely that Muskie had any very deep convictions about Vietnam to start with, and it is just as unlikely that he believes anything much about it now. In fact, Muskie's successive positions on the war probably are not even intended to refer primarily to Vietnam at all; what is clear enough is that they respond to his own pressing needs in relation to the Democratic Party.

"We believe that containment of Communist aggression," said Muskie in 1966, when LBJ was President and the Democrats were facing an off-year Congressional election, "regretfully involves direct confrontation from time to time and that to retreat from it is to undermine the prospects for stability and peace."

This is clear-cut enough, and to suppose that Muskie believed that a few years ago, but now believes the first quotation used in this column is to suppose him a latter-day Paul on the road to Damascus. The intellectual life does not ordinarily proceed in that way.

But the political life may well proceed that way, and Muskie's rhetoric, fervor or no fervor, addresses itself to his own peculiar tactical problem in 1972. He must prevent himself from being outflanked to the left by either McGovern or Lindsay. The committed Left is a minority within the Democratic Party, but it is zealous, noisy and well heeled. It has clout on the campus and in the media. The Left alone cannot carry you to the Democratic nomination, but it can block your way or, as in 1968, make the nomination not worth having. And add to this the datum that in the first eight primary states alone there are 3,000,000 prospective new voters under the age of 21 who are likely to be titillated by Muskie's New Rhetoric.

Revealingly enough, Stewart Alsop has reported that when he queried Muskie about his willingness to double-cross Saigon, Muskie responded not by talking about Vietnam, but by referring to "electoral realities" right here. Muskie is intelligent enough to know that nothing said by anyone on the campaign trail is likely to have much effect in Vietnam; the whole story now hinges on the success or failure of the Communist offensive. Muskie's leftist rhetoric is merely designed to keep the yokels in the tent.

This is not at all to say that Muskie is a hypocrite. Far from it. He is merely a politician plying his craft. Indeed, the strength of his candidacy lies in the widespread conviction that he is too practical a type to get locked into a narrow ideological position. Political sincerity is an odd quantity in any case. In private conversation Richard Nixon can sound somewhere to the right of Louis XVI. But, when he judges the moment propitious, he can haul out one of those speeches by Ray Price, full of uplift and Wilsonian goo. And if Muskie actually gets the Democratic nomination, you can bet that the rhetoric of his campaign will move fairly quickly back toward the political center.

The Business World

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1971 deficit in merchandise trade with the rest of the world, the first suffered by the United States since 1888, is usually blamed by protectionists on unfair trade practices by other nations.

They point to the U.S. loss of its share in a wide range of basic products—steel, automobiles, electronics, textiles—as the result of tariffs, subsidies, low-wage rates and currency imbalances.

All these factors are involved. Consider just the latter, the matter of currency ratios. Since the end of World War II France has devalued its currency five times, Italy three times, England twice.

The effect of such devaluations was to solve imbalances in the foreign payments of these nations but at a cost to other countries of an upward revaluation of their currencies.

The net result was easier trade for the devaluers and a more difficult time for competitors. The major adverse impact was on the United States, which at the same time was sending abroad $345 billion in aid and investments.

Still, many advocates of protectionism for the U.S. market fail to consider some of the other factors. The fact, for example, that the output of the U.S. manufacturing establishment has failed to keep pace.

Or stated another way, that the United States has failed to invest heavily enough in plant and equipment modernization and that therefore it cannot compete efficiently.

Productivity increase is the key to remaining competitive, assuming that competitive conditions are otherwise fair. But productivity is not growing in the United States as strongly as it is in some competing nations.

The comparison becomes clear when related to wage costs. Such costs per unit output rose only one per cent in France between 1965 and 1970, and only 4 per cent in Japan. But in the United States, wage costs rose 21 per cent.

Is this because wages are rising so fast? It might seem so, but that isn't the only factor and probably not the critical one. That problem of the old machinery is the more likely cause.

This is an explanation that some manufacturers find difficult to accept but the fact is that wage rates, though rising from a smaller base, have actually ascended faster abroad than in the United States.

Labor costs have contributed, of course. So have high expenditures for social services that Americans once did without but which they now demand. But capital and management failed also by failing to keep plants modern.

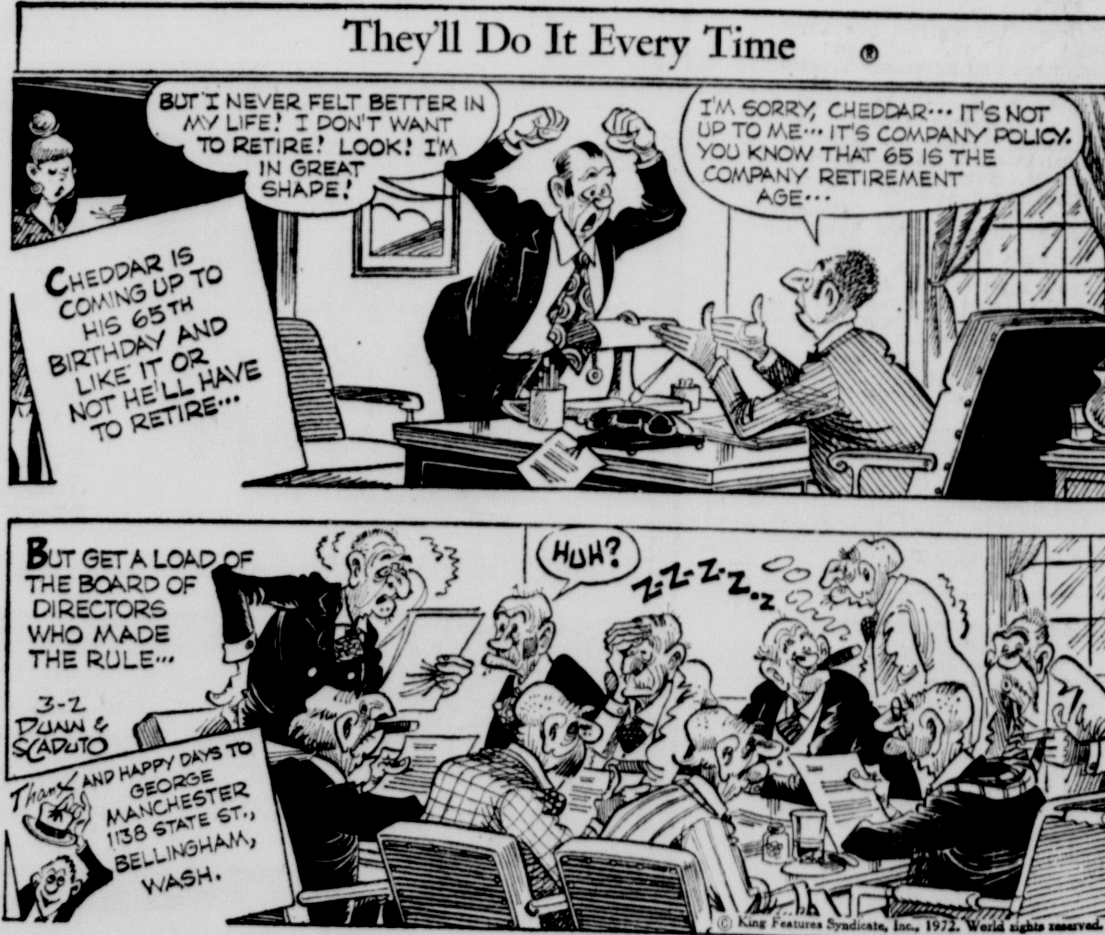

The solutions to the trade deficit, therefore, are clearly seen to be within as well as without, and that is premise upon which the nation seeks solutions. While seeking to lower trade barriers abroad it seeks also to modernize its plants and keep wages and prices in balance.

The new self-image of the United States, in which it views itself as no longer all-powerful, no longer unique, no longer the paternalistic provider of immense amounts of aids is dictated by the facts.

Should Invitations Include Children?

DEAR ABBY: When people make expensive weddings or Bar Mitzvahs, I can understand why they might not want small children. But when they invite friends who have children in their late teens (or even older), living at home, I think it's an insult to the parents and their children to exclude them.

I am a widow with a 20-year-old daughter and a 21-year-old son at home, and I will never again accept an invitation which does not include them. Why should I have to come alone? Do you agree with me?

BURNED UP IN BROOKLYN
DEAR ABBY: No. When one invites a single adult (widow, widower, divorcee, etc.) to a large affair, a thoughtful gesture would be to indicate that an escort (or partner) would be welcome. If the partner happens to be an adult offspring, fine. But grown children shouldn't be automatically invited just because they are still living at home. If they are wanted, they should receive separate invitations.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has dark wavy hair which he wears down to his shoulders. He's rather slight and has delicate features, so it's not surprising that he gets mistaken for a girl a lot. He doesn't like to be mistaken for a girl, so I suggested he cut his hair a little, but he doesn't want to. Anything else I can do?

DEAR ABBY: We have friends who have an only child, eight years old. He was born after the parents had given up all hope of ever having a child. (I mention this only so you will know why they dote on him.) This boy has never known discipline, so he is spoiled rotten. He is exceptionally bright so his parents hang on to his every word and permit him to dominate every adult conversation.

Worse yet this child is never left home! Even on New Year's Eve his parents dragged him to an adult party! This kid was allowed to stay up until the party ended at 2:30 a.m.!

Arrest Man For Kidnap

SANDY HOOK, Ky. (AP)—A Portsmouth, Ohio, man was arrested in Kentucky Tuesday and charged in connection with the abduction and interstate transportation of another Ohioan.

State police identified the suspect as James Daulton, 28. They said he kidnapped Alex Harstein, 68, from his home near Portsmouth. Daulton then fled to Kentucky in Harstein's car.

The Ohio Highway Patrol has taken out a warrant charging Daulton with shooting with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of an Ohio state trooper during a chase after Daulton was stopped for a faulty taillight.

Daulton appeared before U.S. Magistrate George Stavros Tuesday afternoon in Ashland, Ky. He is being held in the Boyd County Jail at Catlettsburg in lieu of $25,000 bond, pending extradition.

Police said Harstein was released unharmed in Elliott County, Ky., about seven hours before Daulton's arrest.

National 4-H Alumni Have Own Program

The Federal Extension Service estimates that there are 26 million former 4-H club members in the United States today. So it is safe to say that in each of the nearly 3,100 counties and districts within the 50 states reside thousands of men and women who were 4-H'ers.

It is these people whom the national 4-H alumni program seeks to honor locally and nationally through its recognition awards. The program is conducted by the Extension Service and supported by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Company. Participants sought are persons who have demonstrated leadership, service to youth, adherence to 4-H principles and success in their occupation or profession.

Businessmen, homemakers, farmers, teachers, public officials and others have received alumni awards during the 13 years they have been offered. The main task, according to the National 4-H Service Committee which cooperates in the program, is to make a concentrated effort to keep in touch with former 4-H members.

If every county from coast to coast named four persons to receive the county alumni recognition pins, more than 12,000 could be honored in a single year. And 200 could be cited for state plaque awards.

Then there are eight national key award recipients to be selected from among the state winners. These eight are guests of Olin during the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago. An elaborate alumni banquet and other recognition events spotlight the national winners.

"With so much good being done by so many who have shared a common philosophy of service to others and who attained success in life," observed Mr. Kenneth Anderson, associate director of the National 4-H Service Committee, "it's important that these responsible Americans be honored."

He urges residents to check childhood affiliations of prominent neighbors to ascertain if they have a 4-H background. "If so, make him or her your candidate," he added. If you are a 4-H alumni from another county, we would be very interested to know you.

I am a widow with a 20-year-old daughter and a 21-year-old son at home, and I will never again accept an invitation which does not include them. Why should I have to come alone? Do you agree with me?

BURNED UP IN BROOKLYN
DEAR BURNED: No. When one invites a single adult (widow, widower, divorcee, etc.) to a large affair, a thoughtful gesture would be to indicate that an escort (or partner) would be welcome. If the partner happens to be an adult offspring, fine. But — grown children shouldn't be automatically invited just because they are still living at home. If they are wanted, they should receive separate invitations.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has dark wavy hair which he wears down to his shoulders. He's rather slight and has delicate features, so it's not surprising that he gets mistaken for a girl a lot. He doesn't like to be mistaken for a girl, so I suggested he cut his hair a little, but he doesn't want to. Anything else I can do?

DANNY'S GIRL
DEAR GRL: He could grow a mustache.

DEAR ABBY: We have friends who have an only child, eight years old. He was born after the parents had given up all hope of ever having a child. (I mention this only so you will know why they dote on him.) This boy has never known discipline, so he is spoiled rotten. He is exceptionally bright so his parents hang on to him every word and permit him to dominate every adult conversation.

Worse yet this child is never left home! Even on New Year's Eve his parents dragged him to an adult party! This kid was allowed to stay up until the party ended at 2:30 a.m.!

Our problem: A club to which we belong is planning a charter flight to Europe this summer, and these friends have signed up WITH the boy included. This is not a family type, Abby. Nobody else is taking a child. We all agree that this kid is a pain in the neck. But who should tell the parents?

ANONYMOUS PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Why should anyone "tell" them? Now that it's become obvious that "the kid" goes everywhere with Mamma and Papa, those of you who do not care for the arrangement — should absent yourselves from their company.

DEAR ABBY: Around October, we begin to receive personalized gift chains, boxes of soap, assorted special occasion cards and a variety of other items we have not ordered. All of them are supposedly sold for the benefit of the handicapped or underprivileged, and it may be legitimate, but there is a limit to how far we can go in our giving.

Just before Christmas, we get boxes of Christmas cards. Some of them are quite lovely, but we prefer to select our own cards.

Abby what is one expected to do with these things? I know we are not legally expected to pay for anything we did not order, and I don't think I should have to spend my time and money to rewrap and mail back these things.

I just can't throw them into the fireplace. My Scotch instincts rebel against such waste. And I surely cannot use them. I would feel guilty.

So what do you suggest?
DEAR MRS. J. P.: Give them to needy people who can use them. Then send a postcard to the organization that sent them to you, telling them how you have disposed of their merchandise, and requesting that your name be removed from their mailing list. (And if they send you more stuff, repeat the procedure.)

National 4-H Alumni Have Own Program

The Federal Extension Service estimates that there are 26 million former 4-H club members in the United States today. So it is safe to say that in each of the nearly 3,100 counties and districts within the 50 states reside thousands of men and women who were 4-H'ers.

It is these people whom the national 4H alumni program seeks to honor locally and nationally through its recognition awards. The program is conducted by the Extension Service and supported by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Company. Participants sought are persons who have demonstrated leadership, service to youth, adherence to 4-H principles and success in their occupation or profession.

Businessmen, homemakers, farmers, teachers, public officials and others have received alumni awards during the 13 years they have been offered. The main task, according to the National 4-H Service Committee which cooperates in the program, is to make a concentrated effort to keep in touch with former 4-H members.

If every county from coast to coast named four persons to receive the county alumni recognition pins, more than 12,000 could be honored in a single year. And 200 could be cited for state plaque awards.

Then there are eight national key award recipients to be selected from among the state winners. These eight are guests of Olin during the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago. An elaborate alumni banquet and other recognition events spotlight the national winners.

"With so much good being done by so many who have shared a common philosophy of service to others and who attained success in life," observed Mr. Kenneth Anderson, associate director of the National 4-H Service Committee, "it's important that these responsible Americans be honored."

He urges residents to check childhood affiliations of prominent neighbors to ascertain if they have a 4-H background. "If so, make him or her your candidate," he added. If you are a 4-H alumni from another county, we would be very interested to know you.

Arrest Man For Kidnap

SANDY HOOK, Ky. (AP)—A Portsmouth, Ohio, man was arrested in Kentucky Tuesday and charged in connection with the abduction and interstate transportation of another Ohioan.

State police identified the suspect as James Daulton, 28. They said he kidnapped Alex Harstein, 68, from his home near Portsmouth. Daulton then fled to Kentucky in Harstein's car.

The Ohio Highway Patrol has taken out a warrant charging Daulton with shooting with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of an Ohio state trooper during a chase after Daulton was stopped for a faulty taillight.

Daulton appeared before U.S. Magistrate George Stavros Tuesday afternoon in Ashland, Ky. He is being held in the Boyd County Jail at Catlettsburg in lieu of $25,000 bond, pending extradition.

Police said Harstein was released unharmed in Elliott County, Ky., about seven hours before Daulton's arrest.

The Great Impersonator

THE REAL MARILYN MICHAELS — Wearing a dress she designed, Miss Michaels poses in front of one of the portraits she paints in her spare time.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Did you ever meet a girl who looked like Barbara Streisand and Judy Garland and Zsa Zsa Gabor, not to mention Lily Tomlin? It must have been Marilyn Michaels who looks and sounds unbelievably like all of these famous ladies on ABC's great new comedy hour "KopyKats."

It's great impersonations because off camera Marilyn looks strikingly different — petite, dark-eyed, bouncy with a voice that tells you straight away she is a native New Yorker. The big city is her home town — not that she's home much. Her career, which started at age 8 when she was an added attraction to a concert her mother was giving in Toronto, has taken an upward swing. She's made several trips to London to film "KopyKats" and frequently flies out to Vegas for club dates. Marilyn, who has a beautiful voice, sings in six languages, but impersonations have made her star shine. They are, she says, an outgrowth of her painting. She specializes in portraits — they line the walls of her apartment.

"For an impression," she said, "I use my face as a canvas and makeup as paint. It's like doing a portrait."

The portrait comes second, only after she's mastered the voice and mannerisms. This involves wandering around the apartment talking to herself while she tries to sound like somebody else.

A graduate of New York's High School of Music and Art, Marilyn says she can't add. Her talents, all creative, include designing the gowns she wears performing. She sketches them, chooses fabric, then has a seamstress run them up.

After "KopyKats" what? "I'd like to do a Broadway show," Marilyn said. "It would be nice to stay in one place for a while. Club dates make for lonely living."

Leap Year Birthday Is Celebrated

John B. Farmer, William sport, was honored with a dinner party Tuesday for his 16th Leap Year birthday at Wardell's Party Home, hosted by his wife.

Guests were members of a card club to which Mr. and Mrs. Farmer belong. They include Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farmer and Mr. and Mrs. William Skinner.

A family style dinner complete with a decorated birthday cake was served. Following the dinner they returned to the Farmer home for an evening of card playing and visiting.

Mr. Farmer was surprised on Sunday evening with a party for his birthday given by Miss Linda Kempton at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kempton, Route 2, Williamsport.

Others present for the buffet style supper, including a decorated birthday cake, were: Mrs. John Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pond, Miss Donna Kempton and Larry Kempton.

Ashbrook Raps China 'Sell-Out'

NEWPORT, N.H. (AP) — Rep. John Ashbrook says President Nixon made an important concession to Red China over withdrawal of American forces from Taiwan and got "nothing in return."

"He conceded—on what has been the basic 22-year demand of the Red Chinese—that we withdraw from Taiwan," the Ohio Republican told a Rotary Club luncheon Wednesday.

"And if you examine the communique the President issued from China you will see that he got nothing in return," Ashbrook said.

"The long term interests of the United States have not been furthered or even maintained by this trip to China," he said.

It is "only a matter of time" before Taiwan is annexed by mainland China, Ashbrook added.

Ashbrook was here concentrating on his campaign for next week's New Hampshire presidential primary. He is challenging President Nixon for the Republican party's nomination.

Brown To Cast Deciding Vote

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown will cast the deciding vote on whether the slate of Democratic National Convention delegates pledged to U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., will be on the May primary ballot in the 18th Congressional District.

Brown's vote became necessary when the Columbiana County Board of Elections deadlocked 2-2 along party lines on the issue Wednesday. Under Ohio law, the secretary of state acts as an ex-officio member of all county board of election.

County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw ruled Tuesday that the board erred last week in throwing out the McGovern slate because the required consent form signed by McGovern was filed separately from the petitions.

Chavez Wins Major Contract With Florida Citrus Firm

MIAMI (AP) — Cesar Chavez has urged migrant field workers to join in new "areas of struggle" after his farm workers union won an unprecedented labor agreement covering 1,200 citrus harvesters.

"We have to make this contract a living reality," the Mexican-American farm labor organizer said Tuesday after announcing the signing of the new pact with Coca-Cola's Minute Maid Corp.

"If you don't help other workers to organize, it will place Coke at a tremendous disadvantage and it will be like killing the goose that laid the golden egg," Chavez told followers and new union members.

The new contract between Minute Maid and Chavez' United Farm Workers Organizing Committee marks the first time in Florida that a grower had recognized a union as bargaining agent for field workers.

The three-year agreement carries an effective date of Jan. 3, 1972, and wage increases and some other benefits would be retroactive to that date, Chavez said.

The pact came under fire from the Citrus Industrial Council as "an absentee-type contract between a conglomerate-type of company with a lot of other interests besides citrus."

Council President Fred Adkinson said, "I doubt it will be a guideline for either harvesting hands or harvesting companies."

The comments indicated that

UFWO organizers seeking further contracts for the state's estimated 150,000 migrant and seasonal workers would meet strong opposition from the citrus industry.

Cesar's cousin Manuel has been organizing field laborers in the citrus, vegetable and sugar industries in Florida since last July.

The Chavez cousins founded the AFL-CIO union after years of strikes and boycotts in California vineyards, vegetable farms and fruit orchards.

Twenty-four U.S. airlines during 1971 flew 134.6 billion revenue passenger miles.

Grant For Physics

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The National Science Foundation has awarded Texas A & M University a $250,000 grant for physics research at its Cyclotron Institute.

College of Science Dean J. M. Prescott noted the one-year grant replaces the support the Cyclotron Institute had received from the Atomic Energy Commission. AEC discontinued much of the institutional funding in physics throughout the nation, he said.

Gardens Popular

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP) — In 1971 more than 70,000 persons visited the city's Nikka Yuko Japanese gardens, 10,000 more than in 1970. Paid admissions totalled 58,600 with about 12,000 elementary school children visiting free on school tours.

"And if you examine the communique the President issued from China you will see that he got nothing in return," Ashbrook said.

"The long term interests of the United States have not been furthered or even maintained by this trip to China," he said.

It is "only a matter of time" before Taiwan is annexed by mainland China, Ashbrook added.

Ashbrook was here concentrating on his campaign for next week's New Hampshire presidential primary. He is challenging President Nixon for the Republican party's nomination.

Brown To Cast Deciding Vote

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown will cast the deciding vote on whether the slate of Democratic National Convention delegates pledged to U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., will be on the May primary ballot in the 18th Congressional District.

Brown's vote became necessary when the Columbiana County Board of Elections deadlocked 2-2 along party lines on the issue Wednesday. Under Ohio law, the secretary of state acts as an ex-officio member of all county board of election.

County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw ruled Tuesday that the board erred last week in throwing out the McGovern slate because the required consent form signed by McGovern was filed separately from the petitions.

Chavez Wins Major Contract With Florida Citrus Firm

MIAMI (AP) — Cesar Chavez has urged migrant field workers to join in new "areas of struggle" after his farm workers union won an unprecedented labor agreement covering 1,200 citrus harvesters.

"We have to make this contract a living reality," the Mexican-American farm labor organizer said Tuesday after announcing the signing of the new pact with Coca-Cola's Minute Maid Corp.

"If you don't help other workers to organize, it will place Coke at a tremendous disadvantage and it will be like killing the goose that laid the golden egg," Chavez told followers and new union members.

The new contract between Minute Maid and Chavez' United Farm Workers Organizing Committee marks the first time in Florida that a grower had recognized a union as bargaining agent for field workers.

The three-year agreement carries an effective date of Jan. 3, 1972, and wage increases and some other benefits would be retroactive to that date, Chavez said.

The pact came under fire from the Citrus Industrial Council as "an absentee-type contract between a conglomerate-type of company with a lot of other interests besides citrus."

Council President Fred Adkinson said, "I doubt it will be a guideline for either harvesting hands or harvesting companies."

The comments indicated that

UFWO organizers seeking further contracts for the state's estimated 150,000 migrant and seasonal workers would meet strong opposition from the citrus industry.

Cesar's cousin Manuel has been organizing field laborers in the citrus, vegetable and sugar industries in Florida since last July.

The Chavez cousins founded the AFL-CIO union after years of strikes and boycotts in California vineyards, vegetable farms and fruit orchards.

Twenty-four U.S. airlines during 1971 flew 134.6 billion revenue passenger miles.

Grant For Physics

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The National Science Foundation has awarded Texas A & M University a $250,000 grant for physics research at its Cyclotron Institute.

College of Science Dean J. M. Prescott noted the one-year grant replaces the support the Cyclotron Institute had received from the Atomic Energy Commission. AEC discontinued much of the institutional funding in physics throughout the nation, he said.

Gardens Popular

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP) — In 1971 more than 70,000 persons visited the city's Nikka Yuko Japanese gardens, 10,000 more than in 1970. Paid admissions totalled 58,600 with about 12,000 elementary school children visiting free on school tours.

Brandt Vote Margin Cut

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's majority in the Bundestag was trimmed from six to four Tuesday by the defection of a Social Democratic deputy opposed to the 1970 treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland recognizing German territorial losses from World War II.

It was the first reduction in Brandt's majority in the lower house since his coalition of Socialists and Free Democrats took office in October 1968. The two parties now will have to be even more vigilant in getting their members to the Bundestag sessions for the votes to ratify the treaties.

Herbert Hupka, the defecting deputy, said he wanted to join the conservative Christian Democratic party, and opposition leader Rainer Barzel said he would recommend Hupka's acceptance. This will leave the governing coalition with 250 votes to the Christian Democrats' 246.

Measurement of the yard originally was based on the distance from the tip of the nose to the end of the outstretched arm and hand.

Sharp Shift In Weather Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm whirled through the eastern Great Lakes region today, causing a wide variety of unpleasant weather.

Another storm brought rain, sleet and snow to parts of the Far West.

In front of the Great Lakes storm, temperatures soared to the 60s and 70s, and thunderstorms and tornadoes broke out.

A tornado overturned a house trailer and injured two persons at Dumas, Ark. Tornadoes were sighted at two other Arkansas locations. Golfball-size hail pounded Dewitt, Ark., while half-inch diameter hail peppered Albion, Ill.

Cold air sweeping in behind the storm, produced rapid temperature drops of 20 and 30 degrees. Freezing rain and snow fell from northern Michigan to New England.

Typical of the sharp change was Concordia, Kan., where on Tuesday the high was 86 degrees. Wednesday it was 29, and today a cold-wave warning is in effect.

Only the Southwest enjoyed fair and mild weather.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 23 below zero at Grand Forks, N.D., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio Weather summary from the National Weather Service:

The early hint of spring vanished quickly from Ohio this morning as a cold front swept eastward across the state.

Areas behind the front experienced a drop to 20 and 30 degrees within two hours.

Temperatures ahead of the front were in the mid and upper 50s. Showers and thunder-showers accompanied the front. Snow will replace the rain in some parts of the state as the mercury tumbles below the freezing mark.

Cloudy skies, rain and some snow in the north will continue through Friday.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Cold wave warnings north tonight. Cloudy and much colder tonight with a chance of snow flurries in the north and east. Lows from the mid teens to the mid 20s. Friday mostly cloudy and cold with a chance of rain or snow by afternoon. Highs in the upper 20s and low 30s northwest to the low and mid 40s southeast.

WEST LAKE SHORE, NORTHWEST INLAND—Cold wave warning tonight. Cloudy, windy and much colder tonight. A chance of snow flurries. Lows in the mid and upper teens. Friday mostly cloudy and cold with a chance of snow by late afternoon. Highs in the upper 20s and low 30s.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST—Cloudy and much colder tonight. Lows in the 20s. Friday mostly

Youngstown Street Assessments Illegal

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The 11th District Court of Appeals has upheld an earlier court decision that more than $200,000 in street improvement assessments by the City of Youngstown in 1968 were illegal because of faulty municipal procedures.

The court, sitting for the 7th District appellate judges, Tuesday upheld Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt's ruling in a case filed by nine plaintiffs. They had objected to being assessed for street improvements they did not seek.

Mothers of pre-schoolers may now examine some of the many new picture books recently added to our collection. There are short notations about some of them below.

Charlotte Zolotow must live in the never-never land of the preschooler. In writing "A Father Like That" she was thinking, with sympathy, of all the little boys who never know the companionship of a man. This is a tender little book.

Reading "The Cat Came Back", you just can't help setting the words to music. Dahlov Ipcar adopted and illustrated this perfectly bewitching book, sure to be a hit with moppets and their sitters.

"Tubby and the Lantern" by Al Perkins is about a little elephant who took a ride on a very big Chinese lantern.

"Nobody Scares a Porcupine", but he is afraid that when he curls up to take a nap, some of his own sharp quills will stick him. By Jean Berg.

There were "Twenty-One Children Plus Ten" in the second grade. Virginia Ormsby tells how a sympathetic man teacher integrated his class.

"Witches' Holiday", in rhyme, is good, spooky reading for any time of the year. Tony Walton's humorous illustrations are faithful to the story, written by Alice Low.

"Fat Cat" is a Danish folktale translated by Jack Kent. He illustrated it also, using simple figures and bright clear colors.

Uri Shulevitz's "Oh, What A Noise" will be loved by preschoolers for its unusual pictures. But an adult will probably have to explain the action, even though it appears simple at first glance.

"Peas in a Pod" is that rare book whose hero is Daddy. He loves to play games with you, and can make you laugh when you feel blue. Miriam Young, the author, also wrote the movie "Mother Wore Tights", so her talents are varied. Linda Neely drew the pictures for "Peas in a Pod."

"No! No!" must be the ever-ringing refrain most children hear. It's all explained in a tiny "basket" book by Lois Myler.

Striking colors illuminate John Reiss's "Numbers" for preschoolers. Artist Reis doesn't stop at ten. He goes on to fifty candy kisses, ninety gum balls, and a thousand raindrops!

Arnold Lobel has let his imagination run wild with "The Ice-Cream Coot." It is peopled with such unrealbirds as the Newspaper Peeper, the Salt-shaker Shrike, the Highbottom Bobolink and the Cutitup Snippet. His book is absolutely crazy and children will love it.

Christina Rossette's familiar "What is Pink?" has been published as an attractive picture book with charming illustrations by Jose Aruego. Slightly more involved is Paul Galdone's version of "The History of Little Tom Tucker." You'd hardly recognize the old nursery rhyme!

Ohio Labor Chief Rips School Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio AFL-CIO will oppose Gov. John Gilligan's proposal to bill students for the college education, delegates to the Ohio Federation of Teachers' annual meeting were told Tuesday.

"It is absolutely contrary to the union stand that education should be free and financed by the people," declared Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King.

"Too many of the wrong people are pushing for this... I'm going to be raising hell."

Under the proposal, called the Ohio Plan, students would have to repay after graduation the cost of their education according to a scale based on their annual earnings.

King said he will oppose the Ohio Plan for the same reason he battled the state income tax in the legislature last year. He said both are "schemes to put the burden of the cost on the little guy."

King praised the Ohio Federation of Teachers for supporting the AFL-CIO in opposing the personal income tax version enacted by the House last summer. The union withdrew its opposition to the version that ultimately was enacted in December.

Few people disagreed that more money was needed for education, King said, but "the temptation is to close your eyes to where the money's coming from as long as you get it."

Sapporo, capital of Japan's northern island of Hokkaido, was planned by American engineers in 1871.

Steelworkers Ratify Contract With RMI

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — More than 500 members of Local 2155, United Steelworkers of America have ratified a new contract, ending a 16-week strike at the RMI Co. in Niles.

The pact provides a $1.20 hourly wage increase and improved fringe benefits. The union had been seeking an increase of $1.80 to $2 and the company's earlier offer was $1.05.

SERTOMA GUEST — James Schoby, left, presented a narrated slide program of his fishing experiences in Canada to the Tuesday noon meeting of the Circleville Sertoma Club. Darrell Hatfield, program chairman, is also pictured.

'Sister Family' Program Proves Help To Thousands

CRUGER, Miss. (AP) — Jack Crawford and his family live in a ramshackle house on a Southern plantation.

He supports his wife and eight children on a disability check of $56.40 a month and says he feels unproductive. He once picked cotton but now is crippled by arthritis.

But he has a friend, a Grand Rapids, Mich., family he has never met but writes to often.

"I think about you all the time," one letter from the Crawfords read. "We like the food very much, but I hope I ain't ask for too much."

The Crawfords who jam themselves each night into a four-room house which has no running water or indoor bathroom live on the Shotwell Plantation in Cruger, Miss.

The family is one of 3,500 families in several Southern states and the Indian reservations in the Dakotas who receive assistance each month from "sister" families across the nation.

The program is called the Box Project. A Vermont housewife created the program in 1962 and each month volunteers see to it that a letter, some money or some food are sent to families like the Crawfords.

And Jack Crawford 66 whose tired eyes reflect the weight of informity and the responsibility of supporting his family says he is grateful for it.

Twice a year a hog is killed on the Shotwell Plantation. It is cut up frozen and provides the Crawfords the only meat in their diets.

Crawford says the only luxuries his family knows have been provided by the Box Project.

One of them a television is set in their sparsely furnished parlor.

It is a color television but much as the young ones would like to watch it in color it is adjusted to black and white.

By setting it that way the family hopes to save Jack's eyes.

Mothers of pre-schoolers may now examine some of the many new picture books recently added to our collection. There are short notations about some of them below.

Charlotte Zolotow must live in the never-never land of the pre-schooler. In writing "A Father Like That" she was thinking, with sympathy, of all the little boys who never know the companionship of a man. This is a tender little book.

Reading "The Cat Came Back", you just can't help setting the words to music. Dahlov Ippur adopted and illustrated this perfectly bewitching book, sure to be a hit with moppets and their sitters.

"Tubby and the Lantern" by Al Perkins is about a little elephant who took a ride on a very big Chinese lantern.

"Nobody Scares a Porcupine", but he is afraid that when he curls up to take a nap, some of his own sharp quills will stick him. By Jean Berg.

There were "Twenty-One Children Plus Ten" in the second grade. Virginia Ormsby tells how a sympathetic man teacher integrated his class.

"Witches' Holiday", in rhyme, is good, spooky reading for any time of the year. Tony Walton's humorous illustrations are faithful to the story, written by Alice Low.

"Fat Cat" is a Danish folktale translated by Jack Kent. He illustrated it also, using simple figures and bright clear colors.

Uri Shulevitz's "Oh, What A Noise" will be loved by pre-schoolers for its unusual pictures. But an adult will probably have to explain the action, even though it appears simple at first glance.

"Peas in a Pod" is that rare book whose hero is Daddy. He loves to play games with you, and can make you laugh when you feel blue. Miriam Young, the author, also wrote the movie "Mother Wore Tights", so her talents are varied. Linda Neely drew the pictures for "Peas in a Pod."

"No! No!" must be the ever-ringing refrain most children hear. It's all explained in a tiny "basket" book by Lois Myller.

Striking colors illuminate John Reiss's "Numbers" for pre-schoolers. Artist Reiss doesn't stop at ten. He goes on to fifty candy kisses, ninety gum balls, and a thousand raindrops!

Arnold Lobel has let his imagination run wild with "The Ice-Cream Coot." It is peopled with such unrealbirds as the Newspaper Peeper, the Salt-shaker Shrike, the Highbottom Bobolink and the Cuttup Snippet. His book is absolutely crazy and children will love it.

Christina Rossetti's familiar "What is Pink?" has been published as an attractive picture book with charming illustrations by Jose Aruego. Slightly more involved is Paul Galdone's version of "The History of Little Tom Tucker." You'd hardly recognize the old nursery rhyme!

Ohio Labor Chief Rips School Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio AFL-CIO will oppose Gov. John Gilligan's proposal to bill students for the college education, delegates to the Ohio Federation of Teachers' annual meeting were told Tuesday.

"It is absolutely contrary to the union stand that education should be free and financed by the people," declared Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King.

"Too many of the wrong people are pushing for this... I'm going to be raising hell."

Under the proposal, called the Ohio Plan, students would have to repay after graduation the cost of their education according to a scale based on their annual earnings.

King said he will oppose the Ohio Plan for the same reason he battled the state income tax in the legislature last year. He said both are "schemes to put the burden of the cost on the little guy."

King praised the Ohio Federation of Teachers for supporting the AFL-CIO in opposing the personal income tax version enacted by the House last summer. The union withdrew its opposition to the version that ultimately was enacted in December.

Few people disagreed that more money was needed for education, King said, but "the temptation is to close your eyes to where the money's coming from as long as you get it."

Sapporo, capital of Japan's northern island of Hokkaido, was planned by American engineers in 1871.

Ohio Supreme Court Nixes Hike For Municipal Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court rejected Wednesday a municipal court judge's contention he was entitled to pay raise under a 1968 amendment to state law.

Judge Malcolm Wallace of the

Celina Municipal had contended he should get a salary hike because the amendment said judges of the Supreme Court, courts of appeals and courts of common pleas "should not have their salaries diminished during their terms of office."

Wallace contended this extended the right to all judges to get salary increases during their terms and repealed a law barring incumbents from getting increases during existing terms.

To do otherwise, he said, denied him equal protection under the constitution.

But the Supreme Court held a Court of Appeals decision against Wallace, saying the law referred only to diminish salaries and did not name municipal judges.

The high court also denied a petition by Catherine Edgecomb, clerk of the Cuyahoga

Falls Municipal Court, for a salary increase.

She contended her salary was fixed at 85 per cent of that paid a municipal judge and that the judge got a raise in 1968 and she did not.

The Supreme Court said "no change in the term of office and compensation shall affect the salary of any officer during his existing term."

In another case, the court upheld an appellate court decision that Ravenna firemen do not have to answer the police telephone and operate the police radio.

Portage County Common Pleas Court originally ruled against seven Ravenna firemen who filed a declaratory judgment action.

But the appellate court reversed that ruling and the high court agreed, saying pertinent law referred only to duties incident to the performance of a fireman's duty as a fireman.

Detroit Policemen To Get More Pay

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit policemen will receive a $750-a-year pay raise retroactive to July 1 under terms of a state arbitration award made Tuesday.

The boost will place the annual pay of a patrolman with four years experience at $12,750. A similar arbitration panel awarded a fireman of comparable experience a $12,979 salary last December.

Volunteer Army Not Yet In Sight

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is heading for an all-volunteer military force with the fewest men in nearly a quarter century and a cost at least $12 billion higher than before the Vietnam war.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says no one can guarantee that higher pay and other new incentives "will suffice to satisfy the need for manpower, without resort to the draft."

But while there are uncertainties, Defense planners aim at ending the draft by mid-1973 and relying on volunteers from then on.

En route to this goal, Laird announced Wednesday he hopes to cut the draft to 50,000 men this year, lowest since 1949 when 9,781 were inducted.

At the same time, Laird said he may need to ask for congressional authority to draft men into the National Guard and reserves as a last resort. But he will propose a number of incentives to avoid this.

The number of men in uniform will level off at 2,358,000 by the mid-1973 date, under President Nixon's new defense budget.

An analysis of Nixon's budget shows the cost of major military "people" items will total about $27 billion in fiscal 1973. Back in fiscal 1965, the annual bill for pay and allowances, medical care, housing etc., came to about $15 billion for a force of 2,655,000 men.

Thus, just before the United States plunged deeply into the Vietnam ground war, it cost about $12 billion less to pay the "people costs" of a military establishment with nearly 300,000 men more than planned for post-Vietnam.

Some of that increased cost is attributable to inflation and salary boosts that would have been voted anyway. But much of the rise is directly traceable to the Nixon administration's drive for an all-volunteer force.

According to administration theory, the government can attract enough volunteers to military service if:

—Pay is brought more in line with civilian scales;

—The quality of service life is improved by eliminating irritants and expanding fringe benefits, and —The country will accord uniformed men respect.

But many senior military officers contend the draft is indispensable, if only to spur young men into volunteering.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court rejected Wednesday a municipal court judge's contention he was entitled to pay raise under a 1968 amendment to state law.

Judge Malcolm Wallace of the

COMMON PLEAS COURT, PROBATE DIVISION

All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Administrators and Executors have filed their inventories and appraisements in the Common Pleas Court, Probate Division, Pickaway County, Ohio:

No. 23906 Ned A. Strous, Administrator of the Estate of John Roll, deceased.

No. 24284 Arthur M. Johnson, Executor of the Estate of Myrtle M. Johnson, deceased.

And that said inventories and appraisements will be for hearing and settlement before the Court on Monday, March 13, 1972 at 9 o'clock A.M. Exceptions to said inventories, if any, must be filed in the Court on or before March 7, 1972.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Common Pleas Court, Probate Division, Pickaway County, Ohio on this 29th day of February, 1972.

Celina Municipal had contended he should get a salary hike because the amendment said judges of the Supreme Court, courts of appeals and courts of common pleas "should not have their salaries diminished during their terms of office."

Wallace contended this extended the right to all judges to get salary increases during their terms and repealed a law barring incumbents from getting increases during existing terms.

To do otherwise, he said, denied him equal protection under the constitution.

But the Supreme Court held a Court of Appeals decision against Wallace, saying the law referred only to diminish salaries and did not name municipal judges.

The high court also denied a petition by Catherine Edgecomb, clerk of the Cuyahoga

Falls Municipal Court, for a salary increase.

She contended her salary was fixed at 85 per cent of that paid a municipal judge and that the judge got a raise in 1968 and she did not.

The Supreme Court said "no change in the term of office and compensation shall affect the salary of any officer during his existing term."

In another case, the court upheld an appellate court decision that Ravenna firemen do not

Detroit Policemen To Get More Pay

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit policemen will receive a $750-a-year pay raise retroactive to July 1 under terms of a state arbitration award made Tuesday.

The boost will place the annual pay of a patrolman with four years experience at $12,750. A similar arbitration panel awarded a fireman of comparable experience a $12,979 salary last December.

Volunteer Army Not Yet In Sight

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is heading for an all-volunteer military force with the fewest men in nearly a quarter century and a cost at least $12 billion higher than before the Vietnam war.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says no one can guarantee that higher pay and other new incentives "will suffice to satisfy the need for manpower, without resort to the draft."

But while there are uncertainties, Defense planners aim at ending the draft by mid-1973 and relying on volunteers from then on.

En route to this goal, Laird announced Wednesday he hopes to cut the draft to 50,000 men this year, lowest since 1949 when 9,781 were inducted.

At the same time, Laird said he may need to ask for congressional authority to draft men into the National Guard and reserves as a last resort. But he will propose a number of incentives to avoid this.

The number of men in uniform will level off at 2,358,000 by the mid-1973 date, under President Nixon's new defense budget.

An analysis of Nixon's budget shows the cost of major military "people" items will total about $27 billion in fiscal 1973. Back in fiscal 1965, the annual bill for pay and allowances, medical care, housing etc., came to about $15 billion for a force of 2,655,000 men.

Thus, just before the United States plunged deeply into the Vietnam ground war, it cost about $12 billion less to pay the "people costs" of a military establishment with nearly 300,000 men more than planned for post-Vietnam.

Some of that increased cost is attributable to inflation and salary boosts that would have been voted anyway. But much of the rise is directly traceable to the Nixon administration's drive for an all-volunteer force.

According to administration theory, the government can attract enough volunteers to military service if:

—Pay is brought more in line with civilian scales;
—The quality of service life is improved by eliminating irritants and expanding fringe benefits, and
—The country will accord uniformed men respect.

But many senior military officers contend the draft is indispensable, if only to spur young men into volunteering.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hellzapoppin'" arrived as a variety hour special on Wednesday night, in comparison with "Laugh-In" is inevitable. The show was equipped with old jokes, sight gags, showers of feathers, even a character who strangely resembled Ruth Buzi's forlorn Gladys. And it was produced by Caroline Raskin, for years a producer of "Laugh-In."

There is considerable irony in the relationship. When NBC's "Laugh-In" arrived on the television scene four years ago, it was widely compared with "Hellzapoppin'," a stage hit in the 1930s and not so much of a hit movie in the 1940s.

To enjoy such a show, one must appreciate corn and knee-slapping jokes. For example, a Negro man stalked on stage in safari costume announcing, "I am the great black hunter."

When the studio audience

laughter subsided, he was asked how to make an elephant shake, to which he replied, "You take two scoops of ice cream..." the studio audience was in the aisles.

"Laugh-In" humor actually is a cut above that.

Actress Lynn Redgrave had a jolly time clowning—she even blacked out a couple of front teeth with chewing gum. Perhaps her greatest moment was when she asked cohosts Jack Cassidy and Ronnie Schell, "Do you mind a gorilla in here?"

"We certainly do," they replied in chorus.

"Well, mind this one for awhile," she replied, introducing them to a man in a gorilla suit.

The show tried to be mad, merry mildly naughtily but it lacked the noise and freedom from inhibitions exhibited by both the original "Hellzapoppin'" and "Laugh-In" of its early days.

U.S. Won't Intervene In Ireland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has rejected suggestions that the United States intervene in Northern Ireland, and says it would take more than a congressional resolution to change its mind.

"Sweeping declarations by outsiders" could make matters worse, Asst. Secretary of State Martin J. Hillenbrand told the House Europe subcommittee Tuesday.

He urged Congress to reject resolutions proposed by more than 80 members calling for some kind of U.S. action in Ulster. Hillenbrand said the administration stands by Secretary of State William P. Rogers' Feb. 3 statement that America "would respond most sympathetically" if asked by Ireland and Britain to mediate.

"In the absence of a request from both parties," Hillenbrand said, "U.S. intervention would be both inappropriate and counterproductive."

"We believe that a resolution urging us to offer our good offices would not in practical terms alter the U.S. position which Secretary Rogers has outlined."

He also said congressional approval of any proposed resolutions on Ulster could generate exaggerated expectations which are beyond U.S. power to fulfill and therefore might interfere with dissolution of Ireland's political strife.

Chiang Official Likens Nixon To Chamberlain

TAIPEI (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese foreign minister said Wednesday President Nixon's joint communique with Communist China reminds him of Neville Chamberlain's Munich agreement with Hitler, the official Central News Agency reported.

The agency said Foreign Minister Chow Shu-kai drew the comparison in a report to the National Assembly. But he added: "We cannot yet see if it will be good or bad for world peace."

Nixon himself anticipated comparison with the apostle of appeasement. He said on his return from China Monday night that he brought back no agreement guaranteeing "peace in our time," the words Chamberlain used when he returned from Munich.

Demo Solons Request Court Block Of Income Tax Repeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Harry Lehman, one of five Democratic legislators who filed a suit in Franklin County Common Pleas Court Wednesday, says the group is not trying to block a Republican effort to repeal the state income tax.

"If it is to be attempted, we believe it should be done in full compliance with requirements of law," Lehman said.

The suit asks the court for direction on how a constitutional amendment such as the one proposed by five Republican state representatives should be placed on the ballot.

It also seeks an injunction to prevent Atty. Gen. William Brown and secretary of State Ted Brown from acting on the Republicans' tax repeal petition until the court reaches a decision. The court has scheduled a hearing on the matter March 13.

An initial petition drafted by the Republicans would put on the ballot in November a constitutional amendment to repeal the income tax adopted by the legislature in December.

It also proposes to put into the constitution a requirement that any future income tax be put to a vote of the people.

The Republicans submitted two initial petitions bearing 100 signatures to Atty. Gen. Brown. Brown rejected the first petition on technical grounds and has yet to rule as to whether the second is legally correct and in proper order.

If he approves, it will go to the secretary of state, who will draft the form for statewide petitions to seek more than 300,000 signatures of voters needed to gain a spot on the ballot.

College Course On Human Sexuality Proves Success

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Human Biology 10, a course on human sexuality, is Stanford University's most popular course ever.

More than 1,000 students are enrolled this quarter.

Dr. Herant Katchadourian and fellow psychiatrist Donald Lunde teach the four-credit course. A Katchadourian lecture on sexual intercourse this week drew 1,400 enrollees and auditions—students attending on a noncredit basis.

Katchadourian said a rising venereal disease rate, among other things, had indicated a glaring lack of sex education among Stanford students.

About 170 students enrolled in the initial class in 1968. Enrollment jumped to 450 in 1969 and now more than 1,000 are registered.

"For some students this course is a breeze. For others, it is very difficult," Katchadourian said.

Katchadourian said most "credit for the serious atmosphere must go to the maturity and integrity of the students."

He said he tries to be "very, very careful that women are not the butt of humor, because it has been that way too long." Male anatomy is covered first "because I don't want this to be just one more stage show."

When discussions of homosexuality first came up, some students objected to straight professors lecturing on the subject.

Lunde rejected the argument. "I talk about child birth, and I have never been pregnant, but I have delivered babies," he said.

"I talk about syphilis and I haven't had it. But I probably know more about it than the students who have," he added.

Katchadourian said the growth of enrollment is evidence of a "widespread recognition that such courses are necessary."

But he discounts the notion that his students, or other segments of society, are sexually ignorant.

"In this class, however, there is practically nothing that everyone knows all about," he said.

"We work on the basis that it is better to know than not to know."

"This is a serious course that teaches students something that affects them very profoundly."

Land Is Approved For Exposition Site

Some important information about your Natural Gas Service

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) has authorized and, effective February 17, 1972, The Dayton Power and Light Company has placed in effect restrictions on the sale of natural gas to new loads during the current period of limited supply. As your gas supplier, we want you to know why this is necessary, and what it means to our customers.

What the "gas shortage" is all about.

For the past several years, demand for natural gas has increased faster than new sources have been developed.

The principal reason why needed new sources have not been developed is that gas producers and pipeline companies have found it uneconomical to explore for and to develop new sources of supply under Federal price restrictions which have been effective in the past.

DP&L, like other natural gas "retailers," must depend upon the supply available from the producers and pipelines. At this time, the supply available to us does not allow for additional customers or new uses by existing customers that we might be called on to serve.

New gas loads are frozen.

To assure dependability of gas service to our present customers, DP&L has taken these steps, as authorized by the PUCO:

1. A complete "freeze" has been placed on all new gas loads, for any purpose, effective February 17, 1972.
2. New loads for which a firm service commitment was made by the Company prior to February 17, will be connected and supplied, but only if they are ready to be served by October 31, 1972.
3. The Company will take necessary steps to prevent present customers from increasing their use of gas above the amount required for normal operation of presently installed equipment.

These restrictions will remain in effect until we can be assured of additional quantities of gas from our suppliers.

The above restrictions apply only to new loads which require additional quantities of gas.

Normal usage by DP&L's present gas customers will not be affected by the above restrictions. During the period of these limitations, however they may not install new equipment requiring more natural gas than is required by normal operation of their present equipment.

What is being done to increase gas supplies.

The Federal Power Commission and the entire gas industry are working to alleviate the supply problem. The Commission has revised, and may revise further, its pricing policies with respect to gas from newly discovered domestic wells. The industry's efforts include: development of new technology to produce gas from coal and petroleum; importation of liquefied natural gas from foreign sources; plans to import gas and petroleum hydrocarbons from Canada and Alaska; and, of course, increased exploration and development of domestic sources, including offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico.

As more gas becomes available to its suppliers, DP&L will receive a proportional share for resale to customers in this area. Requests for gas service will be accepted in anticipation of that time.

The Company regrets that conditions beyond our control make these restrictions necessary. We ask for your understanding in this move to meet our responsibilities to all customers.

The comedy team of Stiller and Meara has talent, heart, humor and, apparently, a yearning to possess a nice little situation comedy series. The seeds did not seem to be planted, however, in Wednesday night's episode of "The Courtship of Eddie's Father." It was designed as a pilot demonstration of a series idea.

Anne Meara got into Eddie's house as an employee of a service company that did everything from answering phones to catering dinners to babysitting dogs and children. Everything she touched, of course, went wrong but none of this was particularly amusing. Stiller played the head of the service company and had even less to do.

Somewhere there is a format just waiting to be found by this couple.

Dr. Albert Sabin Resting Well After Surgery

CLEVELAND, Oh (AP) — Dr. Albert Sabin, noted virus researcher, was reported in satisfactory condition at Cleveland Clinic following open heart surgery Tuesday.

Sabin, developer of the oral polio vaccine bearing his name, said surgeons removed veins from his legs and used them to bypass a blocked coronary artery during a two-hour operation.

Dr. Sabin, 63, said he expects to leave the clinic about March 17. He plans to spend a month recuperating in Florida before returning to the Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel. He is president of the institute.

Dr. Sabin also has developed vaccines to fight encephalitis, sandfly fever and dengue fever. He has been working on the possibility of a link between viruses and some cancers.

Social Security Answers

Q — I am a 19-year-old college student, getting monthly social security checks. I will be married next month and just learned that my benefits will stop because of my marriage. Why can't married students continue to get monthly checks?

A — Students who marry are no longer considered dependent on their parents. That's why their benefits stop. This is the same rule which always has applied to minor children whose benefits also stop when they marry even though they still may be living at home.

Q — I'm a working mother and would like to know whether my two children who are 10 and 11, could get social security on my earnings record if I died or became disabled?

A — Children now have the same social security protection on their mother's record as on their father's. In the event of your death or disability, the children under 18 (or under 22 if still unmarried and full-time students) would be eligible for monthly checks if you had worked long enough under social security.

Q — I have been getting monthly social security disability benefits on my own work record for the past 2 years and will be 60 soon. I am a widow and my husband worked under social security for many years before he died. Should I switch to widow's benefits at 60?

A — You may do so if it is to your advantage. Obviously, if your monthly social security disability benefit is higher than the widow's benefit, you would not want to make any change.

A point to keep in mind, however, is that a widow collects a permanently reduced benefit if she starts getting checks when she is 60. You would have to wait until 62 to get full widow's benefit. You should call or visit your social security office to discuss your situation in detail.

Q — My mother is 67 and gets monthly social security retirement checks. She is healthy and wants to work. Why won't she get all of her benefits if she earns over a certain amount?

A — Monthly benefits are not intended as an annuity to be paid to a person regardless of the amount of earned income he or she may have. They are intended to partially replace the income your mother or any other worker loses when he or she retired. According to the law, a person under 72 receives monthly payments only if he has fully retired or has limited earnings (usually she will not get all of her benefits if she earns more than $1,630 per year). However, many people work part time and still receive all or most of their social security retirement benefits. The people at the social security office will be glad to explain how earnings from a part-time job might affect your mother's cash benefits. Of course, your mother is eligible for Medicare protection no matter how much she earns.

General Motors Expands Factory

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Construction has been started by General Motors Corp. on a $1 million storage addition to its light truck assembly plant at Lordstown. The building is to be completed by September.

The project is expected to stifle rumors that General Motors might abandon its plant because of labor problems it has had since last November.

Some 8,000 United Auto Workers at the truck and Vega minicar plants have voted to strike at the end of this week if a work rules dispute is not settled.

Ross County State Park Promised

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan said Wednesday night his administration is committed to development of the proposed Great Seal State Park in Ross County.

Speaking at Statehood Day ceremonies here, Gilligan said "I believe that it is time we directed our full efforts to providing another state park for the beauty and enjoyment of the people of the Chillicothe community and the entire state."

"I can think of no better occasion than today, the 166th anniversary of Ohio's statehood and the 100th anniversary of the creation of the first national park by a great Ohioan, President U.S. Grant, to announce my commitment on behalf of the state to make the plans for a new state park here a reality."

Funds for the park project are available from the capital improvements budget upon approval by the legislature.

Gilligan said the proposed park would be developed in conjunction with the Scioto Society's Outdoor Historical Drama Amphitheatre on Sugarloaf Mountain.

He said the Natural Resources Department has pledged to purchase up to $200,000 in land for the park.

Man Faces Return To Pen After Rape Appeal Nixed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Charles Victor Johnson, an elder in the Glorious Church of God in Christ, is to return to the Ohio Penitentiary Friday where he faces 34 more years in prison on a rape conviction.

Johnson, 42, was convicted of the charge in Portage County in 1963 and served six years of a 6-to-40-year sentence. He was released on personal bond when a U.S. District Court in Columbus reversed the decision Feb. 5, 1970.

Since then Johnson—who maintains his innocence — has resumed his religious activities, taken a job as a foundry furnace operator and he and his wife and son have mortgaged an east side apartment building.

But last March 18 the conviction was upheld by the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals and last week the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

Johnson and his attorney, Gerald Messerman of Cleveland, will appear before the Ohio Adult Parole Authority before Johnson returns to the penitentiary. They will take with them 106 recommendations from Johnson's church, three other churches and his boss.

Johnson was an indigent in 1962 when he was arrested. He spent 98 days in jail before a lawyer was appointed for him two weeks before the trial. Johnson also was the only black shown the white victims for identification. Messerman's appeal was based on both counts.

Messerman said that if the Supreme Court had ruled on the case, it would face the possible reversal of thousands of cases because of a lack of counsel.

"You would have that delay in the appointment of counsel in the cases of 90 per cent of those indigents convicted after trial," he said. "A ruling would have invalidated all those cases."

Philadelphia Faces Return To Basics

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — One of the busiest offseason markets in recent baseball history bypassed the Philadelphia Phillies—until last Friday.

Before that day, Manager Frank Lucchesi had a solid No. 1 pitcher in right-hander Rick Wise... and problems. Now he has a solid No. 1 pitcher in left-hander Steve Carlton... and problems.

The Carlton-Wise deal didn't go that far toward solving the team's problems but Lucchesi puts up a brave front, asserting that he has changed his philosophy of managing. No more experimenting and more emphasis on fundamentals and winning is Lucchesi's party line.

The truth is that the Phillies are one big experiment, with emphasis on youth. If Lucchesi's youngsters don't get old quick, the popular skipper could be out of a job by July 4.

The Phillies' problems start with pitching, even though Carlton was a 20-game winner last season with St. Louis. After Carlton it's a grab-bag. Dick Selma, the fine reliever who was sidelined most of last season with a sore arm, is being made a starter. Woodie Fryman, 10-7, Barry Lersch, 5-14, Ken Reynolds, 5-9, 35-year-old Chris Short 7-14, and Billy Champion, 3-5, will battle for the other starting spots. Joe Hoerner, 4-5 with nine saves, and Billy Wilson, 4-6 and seven saves, will be in the bullpen.

The Phillies tried desperately to trade 32-year-old Deron Johnson for a starting pitcher or second baseman, but there were no takers for the first baseman who hit .265 with 34 home runs and 95 RBI. He'll be back at first, Denny Doyle and Terry Harmon, both unproven as major leaguers, are slated to platoon at second. Larry Bowa, whose .987 fielding percentage is a major league record, is a strong point at shortstop. Don Money slipped from .295 to .223 as a hitter last year. But he'll be back at third base to prove which year is his proper level.

There are nine candidates for six outfield jobs. Lucchesi says if he had to start the season today he would play Greg Luzinski in left, Willie Montanez in center and Mike Anderson in right. It probably is the youngest outfield in baseball, averaging 21 years.

Marquette Heads Selection Of NCAA Playoff Squads

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Marquette, the team Coach Al McGuire says has "something extra to try to prove," heads the list of the nine at-large basketball teams that accepted invitations Wednesday to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's university division playoffs.

The fifth-ranked Warriors celebrated their selection Wednesday night by downing Tulane, 24 starts for the Milwaukee-based team.

Rounding out the nine of 25 starting spots to be filled by at-large clubs are South Carolina, the nation's No. 8 team with a 20-4 record; No. 9 Marshall, 23-2; No. 10 Florida State, 23-4; No. 11 Southwest Louisiana, 22-3; No. 13 Houston, 19-6; No. 15 Hawaii, 24-2; Providence, 17-5, and Villanova, 18-6.

Marquette had been rated second and was considered a strong title threat not long ago. But then the Warriors' star center, 6-11 junior Jim Chones, suddenly signed a professional contract with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association.

McGuire, however, is not about to discount the Warriors' chances.

"I feel as good or better about this one than the last one," he said of his team. "There's something extra to try to prove here. I think the ball players will pick up the slack. It'll be interesting to be underdogs for a change."

In pairings announced Wednesday by the NCAA, only three of the at-large entries know their opponents for the first round beginning March 11. Regional championships follow March 16-18, and the finals unfold in Los Angeles March 23-25.

Southwestern Louisiana and Marshall square off in the Midwest regional at New Mexico State, Las Cruces. Hawaii meets Big Sky Conference champ Weber State in the West regional at Idaho State, Pocatello.

The scramble for first-round positions remains wide open, but the regionals now appear to shape up this way:

East—Middle Atlantic Conference champion vs. South Carolina at William and Mary; Southern Conference champ vs. Villanova, at Princeton; Ivy League champ vs. Providence, at St. John's.

Midwest—Mid-America Conference winner vs. Marquette, at Tennessee; Ohio Valley Conference champ vs. Florida State, at Tennessee.

Midwest—Southwestern Louisiana vs. Marshall; Southwest Conference champion vs. Houston, at New Mexico.

West—Weber State vs. Hawaii; California State-Los Angeles vs. Brigham Young, at Idaho State.

Automatically qualifying for regional championship tournaments are the titlists of seven more conferences—Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Pacific Eight, Southeast and West Coast.

Baltimore Training Camp Open; Few Players There

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Okay, let's go all you infielders and outfielders—all two of us," joked shortstop Mark Belanger as the Baltimore Orioles held what was supposed to be their first full-squad workout at Miami Wednesday.

Belanger was joking about the paucity of players in the training camp of the American League champion Orioles, who held their first workout without six regulars, a minor league star and a 20-game winning pitcher.

Frank Cashen Baltimore's new general manager, said it would take about $500,000 to bring those eight players—Boog Powell, Dave Johnson, Brooks Robinson, Paul Blair, Don Buford, Merv Rettenmund, Bobby Grich and Mike Cuellar—into the fold.

He spent a large chunk of that half-million, about $110,000, to sign Robinson Tuesday, but the veteran third baseman was not in camp for the opening workout. The seven others remain unsigned.

Why so many holdouts at Baltimore? Some factors are the presence of agents to help players in their negotiations, the departure of Frank Robinson and his $130,000 salary and the presence of Cashen, in his first negotiation season since taking over from Harry Dalton as general manager.

Winning the American League pennant the past three seasons has had its effect, too.

In the National League, one team with a major holdout problem is the St. Louis Cardinals. Seven players are missing, including pitchers Jerry Reuss and Santiago Guzman, outfielder Matty Alou, catcher Ted Simmons and third baseman Joe Torre, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos were still without two of their top veterans, pitcher Carl Morton and outfielder Rusty Staub. Morton was in camp in West Palm Beach, Staub was out of camp in Houston—but both were unsigned.

Willie Montanez, runnerup for National League rookie-of-the-year honors last season, was still unsigned by the Philadelphia Phillies. He says he's going to bring an agent to camp to help negotiate with general manager John Quinn.

On the other hand, outfielder Rick Reichardt signed with the Chicago White Sox, outfielder Bernie Carbo came to terms with Cincinnati and Atlanta signed third baseman Darrell

Evans and outfielder Dusty Baker.

Kent State Gets Shot At Cage Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I just hope we don't get in the way of the players," Kent State Coach Frank Truitt said upon learning his Golden Flashes will have a shot at capturing at least a share of the Mid-American Conference basketball title.

The opportunity resulted from Ohio University's 100-83 loss to Western Michigan Wednesday night, dropping the Bobcats into a three-way tie with Kent State and Toledo for the MAC lead with 6-3 marks.

That means the winner of the Kent-Toledo game Saturday will be assured of at least a tie with Ohio U. for the league championship. If the Bobcats beat Bowling Green at Athens Saturday, Ohio U. and the Kent-Toledo winner will engage in a playoff game at Bowling Green Tuesday to determine who goes to the NCAA tournament.

in upending Ohio U. Wednesday night. All five WMU regulars tallied in double figures, led by guard Earnest Pettis with 30 points.

Eau Claire Retains Lead In Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Eau Claire retained its lead in The Associated Press' college division basketball poll released today—but just barely.

Eau Claire, 21-1, received six first-place votes and a total of 230 points to keep the top spot in rankings by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

But No. 2 Tennessee State, which was 47 points back of the leader last week, surged to within six points of the top spot with three first place votes and 224 points. The Tigers won both their games last week to boost their season mark to 17-1.

Far back in third place in this week's poll, the next-to-last of the season, was Louisiana Tech with 142 points and one first place vote. The next three teams all climbed one notch from last week—Eastern Michigan to No. 4, Alabama State No. 5 and Stephen F. Austin No. 6.

Cheyney State, fourth in last week's rankings, lost one of its three games through Saturday and dropped down to the seventh spot. Akron, which had been No. 8, dropped one of two starts and slipped out of the Top Ten.

The No. 8 spot went to Western Washington and No. 9 to Evansville, each up one place from last week. Kentucky State climbed into the final spot in the Top Ten.

The Top Ten teams in The Associated Press college division basketball poll with first place votes in parentheses, won-lost records through games of Sat. Feb. 26:

1. Eau Claire (6)	21-1	230
2. Tenn. St. (3)	17-1	224
3. La. Tech (1)	21-3	142
4. East. Mich. (1)	21-4	132
5. Ala. St.	22-2	130
6. S.F. Austin	23-2	109
7. Cheyney St.	21-3	108
8. West. Wash.	22-2	103
9. Evansville	22-5	82

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — In-fighter Tony Perez reported to training camp 13 pounds lighter Wednesday after an off-season of personal problems he'd rather forget.

Perez said he suffered two personal blows in the off-season: the death of Chico Ruiz and his failure to get a visa to visit his family in Cuba.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A spokesman for the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association said "it's possible" that the operator of the San Diego Sports Arena has made an offer of $4 million for the club.

General Manager Joe Axelson said owner Max Jacobs "has received several offers for the team. Other than that I can't say anything."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the second straight year, defending champion Wisconsin and Michigan State loom as the class of the Big Ten Conference indoor track meet.

The Badgers grabbed the 1971 crown with the Spartans finishing second. It could be a repeat in this year's championships which begin Friday in Ohio State's French Fieldhouse.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Fifth-ranked Marquette celebrated its at-large bid to the NCAA playoffs here Wednesday night with a 73-60 basketball victory over Tulane.

Guard Allie McGuire put the Warriors ahead 5-4 with a 23-foot jumper three minutes into the game and they never gave up that lead. McGuire and forward George Frazier shared high point honors for Marquette with 15 each.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Racing Commission has taken another step toward protecting the better from stimulated winning horses at Ohio tracks.

Commissioners have pitched the antiquated saliva test after a race and substituted it with the urine specimen test.

The rule for urine testing the winning and place horses in all quinnella, perfecta and stakes races in the state becomes effective March 20.

Kent State Gets Shot At Cage Title

"The players got us this far. Now we'll see if they want to go any farther," said Truitt, contemplating the prospect of a storybook finish for the Flashes, who have an unimpressive 7-15 over-all record.

He said his team will have to be aggressive against Toledo, while, at the same time, staying out of foul trouble. "We have to keep our players on the floor."

Truitt added that his boys also will "have to do a better job on (Tom) Kozelko," the Toledo center who leads the league in field goal shooting, scoring and rebounding.

He got a good look at Kozelko when Toledo beat Kent 78-69 earlier in the season and took another appraisal of the Rockets as they beat DePaul 70-66 Wednesday night.

Marquette Heads Selection Of NCAA Playoff Squads

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Marquette, the team Coach Al McGuire says has "something extra to try to prove," heads the list of the nine at-large basketball teams that accepted invitations Wednesday to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's university division playoffs.

Lakers Edge Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The man who once wasn't wanted now has the Los Angeles Lakers wanting for nothing. Gail Goodrich, once dismissed in the expansion draft, has been one of the National Basketball Association's stand-out guards since coming back to the team in a trade two seasons ago.

And Wednesday night, the dynamic, little player was a star again with a field goal at the four-second mark to give Los Angeles a 109-108 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

Goodrich's heroics came shortly after Wilt Chamberlain missed three straight free throws with the Bucks ahead 108-107.

The third toss rimmed the basket. Happy Hairston snared the rebound and fed Goodrich, who delivered the winning goal from 15 feet out.

In the night's other NBA games, it was: Boston 115, Cleveland 105; Seattle 116, Detroit 102; Baltimore 95, Phoenix 99; Philadelphia 108, Buffalo 99 and Houston 108, Cincinnati 96.

Los Angeles had to wipe out a five-point Milwaukee lead in the last 95 seconds.

Jacksonville Heads NIT Selections

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time—and first time—that Jacksonville played a basketball game in Madison Square Garden, it set the collegiate record for single-game scoring by a team.

The next time the Dolphins invade the Garden, they'll be shooting for bigger game in a series of games—the championship in their debut at the National Invitational Tournament.

The Redmen of St. John's, N.Y., already own two records in the NIT—the most appearances, 20, and most titles, four. Jacksonville, St. John's, Fordham, Syracuse and Niagara were named Wednesday by Ben Carnevale, president of the NIT Selection Committee, the first five entries to be chosen in the 16-team, March 17-25 event.

At least 19 other teams are still in the running for the remaining 11 berths. Most of them will be decided by the final standings of several collegiate conferences—but those winners won't be the ones at the NIT.

The top teams will be en route to the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships. The runners-up, along with a number of independents such as New Mexico, Oral Roberts and Duquesne, will be the ones to receive NIT bids.

Jacksonville, which bombed St. Peter's, N.J., 151-113 in that record-wrecking Garden debut, is 17-6 with one game remaining; St. John's is 17-8 with one to go; Fordham is 16-8 with two to play; Syracuse has a 19-5 mark with two left, and Niagara, 18-6, has one more game on the schedule.

Cage War Continues In AC Conference

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

While some of the country's college basketball teams have secured postseason tournament berths, they're still knocking each other around in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

And the "second season" hasn't even started down there yet.

Maryland's 18th-ranked Terrapins took a 64-56 overtime triumph over Wake Forest Wednesday night and squeezed closer to the leaders in the three-team race.

But even if Maryland happens to overtake co-leaders

North Carolina and Virginia by the end of the regular season

Saturday, there's still the play-off to be considered. The winner of that meat grinder, starting March 9, comes out with the conference title and a berth in the NCAA tournament.

South Carolina, a team which knows all about those fierce ACC playoffs, cut loose from the league this year and is enjoying new-found prosperity because of it.

The eighth-ranked Gamecocks, 81-64 victors over Creighton Wednesday night, were invited to the NCAA tournament without having to face the mad ACC merry-go-round.

Fifth-ranked Marquette, which defeated Tulane 73-60; Providence, 73-65 winner over St. John's, N.Y., and Villanova, a 78-75 victor over Notre Dame, were other independent powers chosen as "at-large" entries for the national tourney.

The other teams selected for the NCAA were idle Wednesday — No. 9 Marshall; No. 10 Florida State; No. 11 Southwestern Louisiana; No. 13 Houston and No. 15 Hawaii.

Three of the five teams who were initial selections for the 16-team NIT field were in action Wednesday night. Syracuse topped Niagara 87-79 in a battle involving two tourney-bound teams. The other selections were St. John's, Fordham and Jacksonville.

Detroit topped Duquesne 79-71 in a match involving two NIT hopeful clubs.

Bob Bodell's six free throws in overtime carried Maryland over Wake Forest after the Deacons had tied the game in regulation on a last-second shot by Pat Kelly.

"It looked like we didn't want to win," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell. "We tried to give it away with stupid, fundamental mistakes at the end. We played better in overtime, but it should never have gone into overtime."

Bodell, who made nine of 11 free throws in the game, sank six straight from the foul line in the final two minutes to clinch Maryland's hard-earned triumph.

South Carolina shot 59 per cent from the floor, dispelling any doubts by Coach Frank McGuire that his Gamecocks might be nervous after the NCAA bid.

"I told my team before the game not to be bothered about the NCAA bid, just go out there and play relaxed," said McGuire.

"We were unable to contain Kevin Joyce," said Creighton Coach Eddie Sutton.

Joyce, the star South Carolina guard, scored a game-high 22 points.

Allie McGuire, who gave the Marquette Warriors an early

with 15 points and shared team-high honors with George Frazier.

Marvin Barnes scored 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for Providence; Chris Ford scored 31 to lead Villanova; Dennis DuVal tossed in 29 for Syracuse and Frank Russell led Detroit's victory with 20.

COWBOYS' COWBOY — Walt Garrison, Dallas Cowboys' fullback, is a real cowboy in the off season. A member of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, Garrison appears in local rodeos when time permits and practices regularly at a ranch near Frisco, Texas, about 20 miles from Dallas. Here, Walt, in checkered shirt, leaves his horse to grapple with steer in bulldozing practice. His partner, Bill Robinson, hazes the steer to keep him running straight. Garrison and Robinson have been rodeoing for the past 14 years.

Nets Defeat Squires; Win 114-111

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) —

"You learn to live with things," said John Roche, who proved it Wednesday night by scoring 19 points in the fourth quarter and providing the spark the New York Nets needed to defeat the Virginia Squires in American Basketball Association play, 114-111.

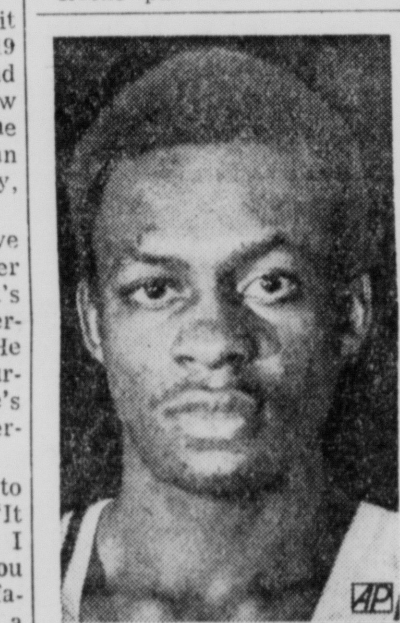

What Roche has had to live with is the knowledge his father lies gravely ill in New York's Veteran's Hospital after suffering a stroke two weeks ago. He admits it affected his play during that time, but says he's learned to put things in perspective.

"It takes a while for it to sink in," he admitted. "It seemed unimportant when I missed a jump shot, when you think about the fact you're father is lying sick in bed in a hospital. While he's still gravely ill, you learn to accept it."

Virginia never trailed in the first half, leading by as much as 11 points before going into intermission with a 53-48 margin. The game saw-sawed back and forth in the third period, the Nets taking a 77-76 edge into the final quarter.

Roche put New York ahead

to stay 88-86 with a jumper with 7:42 to go. The Nets moved ahead by as much as eight, 109-101, but Virginia closed to 113-111 with six seconds to play. Then Bill Melchionni sank a free throw with four seconds to go, and Bernie Williams missed a three-point attempt to tie at the buzzer.

Rick Barry of New York led all scorers with 37 points. Melchionni netted 24 and Roche 23 for New York. Charlie Scott netted 30 and rookie Julius Erving added 22 for the Squires.

In other ABA games, Indiana defeated Utah 111-98, Kentucky clipped Carolina 134-125, Dallas whipped Memphis 125-86 and Denver beat the Floridians 138-125.

Associated Press Sports Writer

While some of the country's college basketball teams have secured postseason tournament berths, they're still knocking each other around in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

And the "second season" hasn't even started down there yet.

Maryland's 18th-ranked Terrapins took a 64-56 overtime triumph over Wake Forest Wednesday night and squeezed closer to the leaders in the three-team race.

But even if Maryland happens to overtake co-leaders

North Carolina and Virginia by the end of the regular season Saturday, there's still the playoff to be considered. The winner of that meat grinder, starting March 9, comes out with the conference title and a berth in the NCAA tournament.

South Carolina, a team which knows all about those fierce ACC playoffs, cut loose from the league this year and is enjoying new-found prosperity because of it.

The eighth-ranked Gamecocks, 81-64 victors over Creighton Wednesday night, were invited to the NCAA tournament without having to face the mad ACC merry-go-round.

Fifth-ranked Marquette, which defeated Tulane 73-60; Providence, 73-65 winner over St. John's, N.Y., and Villanova, a 78-75 victor over Notre Dame, were other independent powers chosen as at-large entries for the national tourney.

The other teams selected for the NCAA were idle Wednesday — No. 9 Marshall; No. 10 Florida State; No. 11 Southwestern Louisiana; No. 13 Houston and No. 15 Hawaii.

Three of the five teams who were initial selections for the 16-team NIT field were in action Wednesday night. Syracuse topped Niagara 87-79 in a battle involving two tourney-bound teams. The other selections were St. John's, Fordham and Jacksonville.

Detroit topped Duquesne 79-71 in a match involving two NIT hopeful clubs.

Bob Bodell's six free throws in overtime carried Maryland over Wake Forest after the Deacons had tied the game in regulation on a last-second shot by Pat Kelly.

"It looked like we didn't want to win," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell. "We tried to give it away with stupid, fundamental mistakes at the end. We played better in overtime, but it should never have gone into overtime."

Bodell, who made nine of 11 free throws in the game, sank six straight from the foul line in the final two minutes to clinch Maryland's hard-earned triumph.

South Carolina shot 59 per cent from the floor, dispelling any doubts by Coach Frank McGuire that his Gamecocks might be nervous after the NCAA bid.

"I told my team before the game not to be bothered about the NCAA bid, just go out there and play relaxed," said McGuire.

"We were unable to contain Kevin Joyce," said Creighton Coach Eddie Sutton.

Joyce, the star South Carolina guard, scored a game-high 22 points.

COWBOYS' COWBOY — Walt Garrison, Dallas Cowboys' fullback, is a real cowboy in the off season. A member of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, Garrison appears in local rodeos when time permits and practices regularly at a ranch near Frisco, Texas, about 20 miles from Dallas. Here, Walt, in checkered shirt, leaves his horse to grapple with steer in bulldogging practice. His partner, Bill Robinson, hazes the steer to keep him running straight. Garrison and Robinson have been rodeoing for the past 14 years.

Nets Defeat Squires; Win 114-111

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — "You learn to live with things," said John Roche, who proved it Wednesday night by scoring 19 points in the fourth quarter and providing the spark the New York Nets needed to defeat the Virginia Squires in American Basketball Association play, 114-111.

What Roche has had to live with is the knowledge his father lies gravely ill in New York's Veteran's Hospital after suffering a stroke two weeks ago. He admits it affected his play during that time, but says he's learned to put things in perspective.

"It takes a while for it to sink in," he admitted. "It seemed unimportant when I missed a jump shot, when you think about the fact you're father is lying sick in bed in a hospital. While he's still gravely ill, you learn to accept it."

Virginia never trailed in the first half, leading by as much as 11 points before going into intermission with a 53-48 margin. The game saw-sawed back and forth in the third period, the Nets taking a 77-76 edge to stay 88-86 with a jumper with 7:42 to go. The Nets moved ahead by as much as eight, 109-101, but Virginia closed to 113-111 with six seconds to play. Then Bill Melchioni sank a free throw with four seconds to go, and Bernie Williams missed a three-point attempt to tie at the buzzer.

Rick Barry of New York led all scorers with 37 points. Melchioni netted 24 and Roche 23 for New York. Charlie Scott netted 30 and rookie Julius Erving added 22 for the Squires.

In other ABA games, Indiana defeated Utah 111-98, Kentucky clipped Carolina 134-125, Dallas whipped Memphis 125-86 and Denver beat the Floridians 138-125.

Auto Dealer Is Indicted; 52 Counts

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — Nelson "Sonny" Berkowitz, a Port Clinton automobile dealer, was indicted by the Ottawa County grand jury Wednesday night on 52 counts of alleged misdeeds by his company, Berk Ford Sales, Inc.
The grand jury had been called into special session by County Prosecutor Lowell Petersen after he received complaints from 23 of Berk's customers. He said some of the customers complained they did not receive titles for cars they bought or wound up with cars for which someone else also had titles.

Berkowitz, 46, was a deputy registrar of motor vehicles until he resigned recently.

He was indicted on 16 counts of embezzlement of sales tax, 16 counts of transferring motor vehicles without titles, 12 counts of fraud and eight counts of perjury involving alleged misrepresentation of ownership of certificates of title.

All the counts are felonies.
The jury did not indict Berkowitz on several charges of larceny by trick. He was to be arraigned on the grand jury indictments this afternoon. He has not been in custody.

Authorities said more than a dozen persons who bought cars from Berkowitz lost them when Port Clinton area banks which claimed ownership confiscated them with the aid of court orders.

Berkowitz has been sued by two banks and several disgruntled customers. He has filed a countersuit against one of the banks.

"The prosecutor's office has received quite a few calls from persons who think the grand jury action means they will get their cars back," Petersen said. "We have to tell them there is nothing we can do about that."

Hotel Chains OK Tax Repayment

CHICAGO (AP) — The Hilton Hotels Corp. and the Loew's Hotel Corp. agreed in U.S. District Court on Dec. 6, 1971 to repay more than $5 million which a suit charged consisted of illegal tax charges on room service and telephone calls.

Three days later the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago, agreed to rebate $75,000.

In agreeing to the settlement, Hilton and Loew denied any guilt.

The settlement came in a suit filed by William Colson, a Miami, Fla., lawyer who contended that there were violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and illegal restraint of trade from 1966 to 1970.

strip mining regulations until next year even if the new law were adopted immediately.

The governor, Nye and several state legislators promised the demonstrators to tour Hanna's operations Friday.

The Senate Elections Committee "reluctantly" killed a bill that would have permitted voters to select an entire slate of presidential national convention delegates candidates merely by voting for the hopeful they were pledged to.

Committee chairman, Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-3 Cincinnati, said the bill did not have enough support to pass the legislature as an emergency measure and be effective by the May 2 primary.

The action means that the names of some 400 presidential primary delegates and alternate candidates must be put on paper ballots since automatic voting machines cannot handle the large number of names.

Secretary of State Ted Brown has estimated the extra cost at $2 million. The cost would include an estimated $1.1 million for printing of the ballots plus extra expense incurred in counting them.

As it now stands, the presidential candidate will have his name on the top of the ballot with delegates pledged to him listed individually underneath.

In the Democratic primary, it means that the names of 173 delegates and 78 alternates must be listed individually for each presidential candidate who submitted a full slate.

Bills passed by the House Wednesday would permit assessment of jury costs in civil cases against one or more partners of a corporation, and permit the board of trustees of Stark County Technical Institute District to increase its membership from five to seven.

Senate bills passed would conform Ohio's scenic river law with the federal wild, scenic and recreational rivers act, and expand the area from which trustees of a county library district may be selected.

Queen Sees Shrunken Head Exhibit

KUCHING, Malaysia (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II looked at the row of shrunken heads tied to the ceiling and asked her host:

"Does any of this still go on?"

It does not, he assured her. The heads were on exhibit at the Sarawak Museum, the queen's second stop on her six-hour visit to the Malaysian Borneo State that the white rajahs used to rule.

Princess Anne took a closer look, and her father, Prince Philip, seemed fascinated.

The Brooke family of white rajahs suppressed headhunting among the Ibans and other tribes before World War II, but now and then a Japanese head was taken during the wartime occupation.

With parts of Sarawak still plagued by Communist guerrillas, security for the queen's visit was unobtrusive but firm. She rode in a Daimler imported for the occasion, and that was good news for Chief Minister Abdul Rahman Yakub. It now becomes his official car.

Saddened Mine Town Residents Eye New Start In Life

By CRAIG AMMERMAN

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — They buried most of the Gunels family Wednesday. At the funeral, a minister said, "God called for them, and the call was answered."

As the refugees of Buffalo Creek hollow hear the same words said a little differently this week until at least 76 caskets are placed in the ground, they also are taking small steps at a new life.

Wednesday brought a return of power and telephone service to the 1,000 or so people who still have houses standing on the hillsides along the 17-mile hollow split by Buffalo Creek and ravaged by a flash flood last Saturday. It also brought a foot-stomping country music concert.

"We're country people, and we like country music," Wallace Horn said Wednesday night as his group, the Friendly Neighbors, entertained nearly 200 flood refugees at Man High School, where many are sleeping on cots. They, like 4,000 others, have no homes to go to.

"This is what we need," one man said at the concert. He added he didn't want his name in "the newspapers because I just buried my wife and it might not look right to some people."

More than 20 persons were buried Wednesday, and at least that many were to be placed in the ground today.

"From earth to earth, from dust to dust, from ashes to ashes," the Rev. Clarence Campbell said as three-fourths of the Gunels family, Martha, 21; her son, David, 3; and a girl, Jessica, 1, were buried. The only survivor, husband and father, David, 31, stood nearby.

On Saturday, he had seen his family's mobile home swept away by the flood waters

Councilman Bars City Resolution

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland councilman Charles Carr Monday night successfully barred passage of an emergency resolution asking the Ohio Legislature to levy the city's 1 per cent income tax on profits of banks, savings and loan associations and public utility companies.

Carr, a Democrat and the president of the Quincy Savings and Loan Co. on the city's East Side, garnered enough opposition to keep the measure from passing by one vote.

unable to do anything about it. Local volunteer workers, at the high school said the concert was arranged Wednesday night because "we thought this might help the people forget their problems."

They said they would invite another group to play tonight.

Many of the refugees began moving out of the high school and other flood shelters Wednesday and into homes with friends and relatives. They also continued applying for available aid from several agencies.

An official of the Office of Hugh Richardson, said up to 40 families would be located in mobile homes by the end of the week. He said more than 450 families left homeless by the flood have applied for housing which is available on a one-year, free rent basis.

In Charleston Wednesday, Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. named an ad hoc committee of state officials and citizens to study the disaster. He said that if the nine-member group declares "an imperativeness for legislation" in similar to those at Buffalo Creek, he would not hesitate to call a special legislative session to deal with them.

A Charleston newspaper said it erred in reporting the contents of a U.S. Geological Survey report about coal mine slag

Man Guilty Of Murder

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old suburban Oakwood Village man was convicted of first-degree murder and assault with intent to kill Wednesday by a three-judge Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court panel.

The judges recommended mercy for Allen Dale Barney and sentenced him to life in prison.

Barney was charged with murder in the stabbing death of 13-year-old Marian Honaker of Bedford Heights, whose body was found last Halloween in a field behind Barney's home. She had been stabbed 15 times.

He was charged with assault with intent to kill in the choking of Nancy Mimna, 13, of Oakwood, a companion of Miss Honaker.

The judges, Adrian Fink, Francis Sweeney and Carlos Riecker, visiting from Morgan County, deliberated about 90 minutes in reaching their verdict.

pile dams. The Charleston Gazette Wednesday quoted the report as calling the dam "unstable," but said in its Tuesday editions that the report actually said "stable."

The most pressing concern now is removing the refugee families from mass living in temporary Red Cross shelters into other housing. American Red Cross President George Elsey said Wednesday after touring the area.

"You cannot organize for the future after a disaster like this until a family can once again be placed together as a unit," he said. "That is what we are trying to do now."

Up and down the winding hollow Wednesday, National Guardsmen set hundreds of small fires as they sifted through the debris of 16 former coal camps. Red Cross workers set up six centers to administer typhoid inoculations.

They emphasized there are no reported cases of typhoid or

Ohio ICC Member Out Of Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Bush, 60, a Portsmouth, Ohio, native who learned Wednesday that he will not be appointed to another term on the Interstate Commerce Commission, says he has no definite future plans.

Bush issued a statement saying he had been informed by the White House that "it can be expected that my name will not be submitted to the Congress for reappointment for another seven-year term."

A Democrat, Bush was appointed by President John Kennedy in 1961. At that time he was director of commerce in the administration of then Ohio Gov. Michael DeSalle.

He subsequently was reappointed to the regulatory commission for a seven-year term by President Lyndon Johnson. The term expired last Dec. 31.

The Portsmouth Times reported Wednesday that Bush's reappointment to the $38,000-a-year post was blocked by Ohio Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr.

Taft has been a vocal opponent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, claiming that ICC actions have resulted in excessive rates which cost consumers millions of dollars annually.

any other dangerous disease, but said it was necessary to take precautionary steps in light of the situation.

There were still 100 persons listed as missing or unaccounted for, but that was 65 less than the day before; five in that number were read.

One eyewitness to Saturday's break in the Buffalo Mining Co. slag pile dam said an explosion preceded the onrushing waters.

John Wells said he was driv-

Sheriff Sues Insurance Firm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A New York insurance company has been sued by Cuyahoga County Sheriff Ralph Kreiger, who claims the company failed to meet its responsibilities in defending him in a personal injury lawsuit.

The defendant, All Star Insurance Corp., provides specialized liability coverage protecting law enforcement agencies from actions arising from false arrests, assaults by police officers and other related charges.

Kreiger charges in his suit, filed Wednesday, that the company refused to defend his department in a suit filed in October, 1970, by three men who claimed they were assaulted by a deputy while visiting a prisoner in the county jail.

Santiago Feliciano and his sons, Jose and Santiago Jr., sued for $100,000 damages for injuries they claimed they received. Their suit is pending in Common Pleas Court.

ing alongside the dam on his way home from his job in the mines when he heard a loud explosion and looked up to see "dirt and rocks flying everywhere."
Howard Linville, who said he was in the area of the dam before it ruptured, said the slag pile dam had been smoking, and that he knew of at least one explosion several years ago at the site.
A U.S. Geological Survey report five years ago said a portion of the bank forming the dam "is smoldering...new bank is being dumped over old burning bank."
Many dumps of mine waste or slag are burning across the Appalachian coal fields.

"This is what we need," one man said at the concert. He added he didn't want his name in "the newspapers because I just buried my wife and it might not look right to some people."

More than 20 persons were buried Wednesday, and at least that many were to be placed in the ground today.

"From earth to earth, from dust to dust, from ashes to ashes," the Rev. Clarence Campbell said as three-fourths of the Gunels family, Martha, 21; her son, David, 3; and a girl, Jessica, 1, were buried.

The only survivor, husband and father, David, 31, stood nearby. On Saturday, he had seen his family's mobile home swept away by the flood waters.

Councilman Bars City Resolution

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland councilman Charles Carr Monday night successfully barred passage of an emergency resolution asking the Ohio Legislature to levy the city's 1 per cent income tax on profits of banks, savings and loan associations and public utility companies.

Carr, a Democrat and the president of the Quincy Savings and Loan Co. on the city's East Side, garnered enough opposition to keep the measure from passing by one vote.

unable to do anything about it. Local volunteer workers at the high school said the concert was arranged Wednesday night because "we thought this might help the people forget their problems."

They said they would invite another group to play tonight.

Many of the refugees began moving out of the high school and other floor shelters Wednesday and into homes with friends and relatives. They also continued applying for available aid from several agencies.

An official of the Office of Hugh Richardson, said up to 40 families would be located in mobile homes by the end of the week. He said more than 450 families left homeless by the flood have applied for housing which is available on a one-year, free rent basis.

In Charleston Wednesday, Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. named an ad hoc committee of state officials and citizens to study the disaster. He said that if the nine-member group declares "an imperativeness for legislation" in similar to those at Buffalo Creek, he would not hesitate to call a special legislative session to deal with them.

A Charleston newspaper said it erred in reporting the contents of a U.S. Geological Survey report about coal mine slag

Man Guilty Of Murder

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old suburban Oakwood Village man was convicted of first-degree murder and assault with intent to kill Wednesday by a three-judge Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court panel.

The judges recommended mercy for Allen Dale Barney and sentenced him to life in prison.

Barney was charged with murder in the stabbing death of 13-year-old Marian Honaker of Bedford Heights, whose body was found last Halloween in a field behind Barney's home. She had been stabbed 15 times.

He was charged with assault with intent to kill in the choking of Nancy Mimna, 13, of Oakwood, a companion of Miss Honaker.

The judges, Adrian Fink, Francis Sweeney and Carlos Riecker, visiting from Morgan County, deliberated about 90 minutes in reaching their verdict.

pile dams. The Charleston Gazette Wednesday quoted the report as calling the dam "unstable," but said in its Tuesday editions that the report actually said "stable."

The most pressing concern now is removing the refugee families from mass living in temporary Red Cross shelters into other housing. American Red Cross President George Elsey said Wednesday after touring the area.

"You cannot organize for the future after a disaster like this until a family can once again be placed together as a unit," he said. "That is what we are trying to do now."

Up and down the winding hollow Wednesday, National Guardsmen set hundreds of small fires as they sifted through the debris of 16 former coal camps. Red Cross workers set up six centers to administer typhoid inoculations.

They emphasized there are no reported cases of typhoid or

Ohio ICC Member Out Of Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Bush, 60, a Portsmouth, Ohio, native who learned Wednesday that he will not be appointed to another term on the Interstate Commerce Commission, says he has no definite future plans.

Bush issued a statement saying he had been informed by the White House that "it can be expected that my name will not be submitted to the Congress for reappointment for another seven-year term."

A Democrat, Bush was appointed by President John Kennedy in 1961. At that time he was director of commerce in the administration of then Ohio Gov. Michael DeSalle.

He subsequently was reappointed to the regulatory commission for a seven-year term by President Lyndon Johnson. The term expired last Dec. 31.

The Portsmouth Times reported Wednesday that Bush's reappointment to the $38,000-a-year post was blocked by Ohio Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr.

Taft has been a vocal opponent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, claiming that ICC actions have resulted in excessive rates which cost consumers millions of dollars annually.

any other dangerous disease, but said it was necessary to take precautionary steps in light of the situation.

There were still 100 persons listed as missing or unaccounted for, but that was 65 less than the day before; five in that number were read.

One eyewitness to Saturday's break in the Buffalo Mining Co. slag pile dam said an explosion preceded the onrushing waters.

John Wells said he was driving alongside the dam on his way home from his job in the mines when he heard a loud explosion and looked up to see "dirt and rocks flying everywhere."

Howard Linville, who said he was in the area of the dam before it ruptured, said the slag pile dam had been smoking, and that he knew of at least one explosion several years ago at the site.

A U.S. Geological Survey report five years ago said a portion of the bank forming the dam "is smoldering...new bank is being dumped over old burning bank."

Many dumps of mine waste or slag are burning across the Appalachian coal fields.

Sheriff Sues Insurance Firm

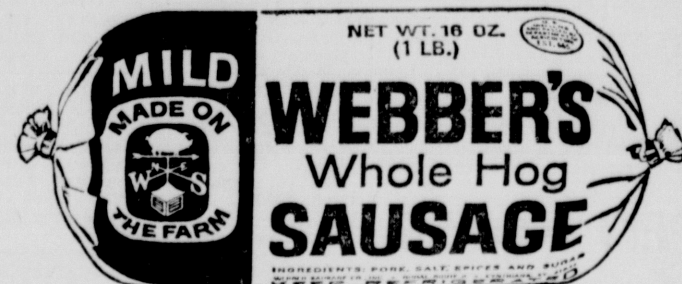

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A New York insurance company has been sued by Cuyahoga County Sheriff Ralph Kreiger, who claims the company failed to meet its responsibilities in defending him in a personal injury lawsuit.

The defendant, All Star Insurance Corp., provides specialized liability coverage protecting law enforcement agencies from actions arising from false arrests, assaults by police officers and other related charges.

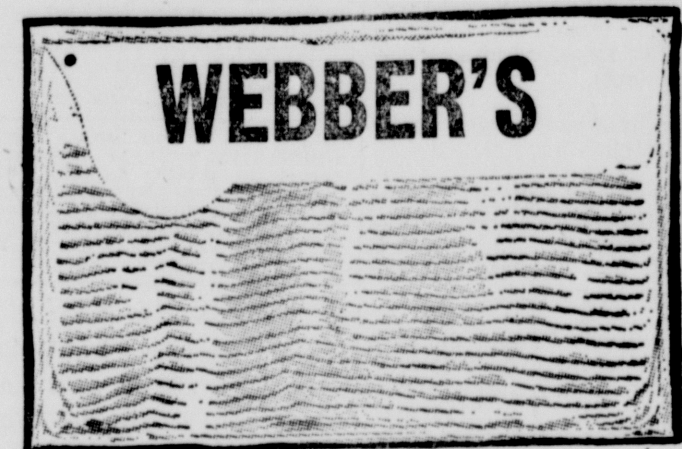

Kreiger charges in his suit, filed Wednesday, that the company refused to defend his department in a suit filed in October, 1970, by three men who claimed they were assaulted by a deputy while visiting a prisoner in the county jail.

Santiago Feliciano and his sons, Jose and Santiago Jr., sued for $100,000 damages for injuries they claimed they received. Their suit is pending in Common Pleas Court.
